JAPANESE NAVAL ATTACHE DEAD

Found Hanged in Hotel Bedroom

Naples, Apr. 17.
Commander Sinsuke Ohtani, the Japanese Naval Attache in Rome, was found dead in his room at a local hotel last night.
It appears to be a case of suicide. He was found hanged.—Reuter.

HANGED BY TOWEL

NAPLES HOTEL TRAGEDY.

JAPANESE NAVAL ATTACHE'S END

Naples, Apr. 17.
The suicide of Commander Ohtani, the Japanese naval attache, has caused a shock in Japanese diplomatic circles.

Investigation at the hotel seems to suggest that he came to Naples with the intention of taking his life. He arrived at the hotel during the afternoon and asked for a room with a bath attached. He looked tired and was carrying very little baggage, but as he was a regular client of the hotel this caused no comment.

At eight o'clock in the evening, a servant knocked at the door and entered the room on receiving no reply, to find Commander Ohtani lying dead in the bath, hanged with a towel from the shower.

It is estimated that he had been dead some two hours before he was found.

No letters or documents throwing any light on the affair were found. Servants at his home in Rome expected him back to-morrow. The Counselor of the Legation, Mr. Iwato, has gone to Naples.—Reuter.

R.A.F. Flyingboats Meet Strong Headwinds

It is probable that the three powerful Singapore Royal Air Force Supermarine-Southampton flyingboats, which were due to arrive in Hongkong at two o'clock this afternoon, will arrive at a later hour.

Owing to strong winds, the machines, which started out early this morning, have returned to the north of the Philippine Islands, according to latest information.

They will probably refuel and if weather conditions are more favourable, will start out again in time to arrive here at 4 p.m.

The machines, under the command of Group Captain S. W. Smith, O. B. E., Officer Commanding the R. A. F. in the Far East, are on a coastal tour, having taken off from Singapore on April 2.

SIR SAMUEL HOARE AND LANCASHIRE

MINISTER RETORTS "MARE'S-NEST"

London, April 16.
MR. WINSTON CHURCHILL FURNISHED A SENSATION in the House of Commons this evening when he asked leave "to refer a matter of grave importance to the Committee of Privileges."

Mr. Churchill proceeded to make accusations against the Secretary of State for India, (Sir Samuel Hoare) and others, including Lord Derby, alleging grossly irregular conduct in bringing pressure to bear on witnesses giving evidence before the Select Committee on Indian Constitutional Reform.

The charges were warmly denied by Sir Samuel Hoare, who explained exactly what happened.

Mr. Winston Churchill asserted that when Sir Samuel Hoare, in 1933, learned what evidence the Manchester Chamber of Commerce proposed to submit to the Indian Select Committee, he with others, notably Lord Derby (former Minister of War) exerted pressure on the Chamber with the result that the proposed evidence was fundamentally altered.

Mr. Churchill said that he did not doubt that the action of Sir Samuel Hoare and Lord Derby was well-intentioned.

"GROSSLY IRREGULAR."

In bringing the matter to the attention of the House, he had no thought of impugning their personal motives, but he felt it to be grossly irregular for members of the Commission to press witnesses to alter their evidence.

The House agreed to Mr. Winston Churchill's motion, after a chorus of approval by the leaders of all sections of the House, including Sir Samuel Hoare.

The Secretary of State for India said he would welcome the enquiry. It would provide a chance once again to prove that Mr. Churchill had found a mare's-nest.

SIR SAMUEL EXPLAINS.

In the course of his reply to Mr. Churchill, Sir Samuel added that the Manchester Chamber of Commerce's original memorandum seemed to him to destroy any chance of negotiations between India and Manchester (which eventually had a happy issue) even occurring.

He felt bound to bring this to the notice of the Manchester Chamber.

EFFORTS UNSUCCESSFUL.

His efforts, however, were unsuccessful. The Chamber did nothing as a result of the representations he made.

It was not until four months later that representations along the same lines were made by the Lancashire delegation that went to India. It was this that induced the Manchester Chamber to amend their memorandum.—Reuter.

ANOTHER VERSION.

London, April 16.
With the Government's full concurrence, the House of Commons accepted a motion moved by Mr. Winston Churchill that certain matters which he claimed constituted a breach of the privileges of the House be referred to the Committee of Privileges.—(Continued on Page 7.)

SHARP RISE IN BRITISH TRADE

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

RAW MATERIAL IMPORTS

London, April 16.
A further increase in overseas trade is disclosed in the Board of Trade returns for March.

Imports last month were of the value of £61,969,627, as compared with £57,353,970 in February and £56,351,612 in March of last year.

Exports last month represented £33,068,530 worth of United Kingdom manufactured goods, coal and other raw materials and £5,631,427 of re-exported merchandise, mainly raw materials dealt with by merchant firms. Excluding re-exports, the comparative export figures for the previous month and for March, 1933, were £30,060,461 and £32,560,721. It is noteworthy that owing to the Easter holidays, there were two fewer working days last month than in March, 1933.

MORE EMPLOYMENT.

The value of re-exports in March last year was £3,883,020. Of the increase over March, of re-exported merchandise mainly of £6,018,015 in imports, over four million pounds is represented by increased imports of raw materials, and indicates additional employment in staple industries.

In every classification of imports of raw materials and articles mainly unmanufactured, there was an increase last month over March, 1933. For the first three months of the current year, imports are valued at £25,600,789 more than in the corresponding period of last year, but they are £9,620,612 less than in the first three months of 1932.

MAJOR EXPORTS.

Exports compared for the same periods show increases respectively of £5,011,995 and £2,387,333.

The increases in exports fall mainly under the headings of iron and steel, non-ferrous metals, woollen manufactures, chemicals and motor cars.—British Wireless.

On a charge of avoiding paying his fare on a China Motor Bus Company vehicle, a salesman, Fung Ho-chi, 32, failed to appear before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, and his bail of $25 was estreated.

Inspector James stated it was a very obvious case of attempting to defraud the Company.

CONFUSION OVER DISCOVERY AT SEA?

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, April 17.
When all hope had been abandoned, the missing Canton air-liner is said to have been found adrift off the Chekiang coast.

A message emanating from Hangchow says that the giant Sikorsky flyingboat, badly battered by rough weather, was found by a plane sent out by the Hangchow Aviation School late yesterday afternoon.

All the occupants were well, according to the message, despite the fact that they had been drifting on the sea for a week and living on very short rations, without any supplies other than emergency provisions aboard.

OFF CHENNAI.

The report says that the Sikorsky was discovered some distance out at sea, off the town of Chennai, Chekiang, which apparently means a position about thirty miles south of Volcano Island—around which the search was concentrated and in the south-east corner of Hangchow Bay.

The Hangchow report suggests that the persons aboard the Sikorsky have been rescued as it mentions arrangements for the carriage of the wreck of the plane back to Shanghai.—Central News.

REPORT OF SAFETY DENIED

Evidence of Disaster Picked Up

Shanghai, Apr. 17, 11.20 a.m.
First tangible evidence that the lost air-liner met with disaster reached Shanghai this morning by steamer from Changhai, Chekiang.

It consisted of a Chinese Post Office mail-bag, a cloth bag, two books, forms addressed to the Foochow agents of the C.N.A.C., an envelope containing baby's comforters.

All were sodden but in a good state of preservation.

FOUND BY FISHERMEN.

Fishermen are reported to have found these articles on April 11 between Kiangtanshan Island and the Chekiang coast and took them to Changhai where a Chinese mechanic shipped them to Shanghai.

It is understood that dredging operations will be conducted, but it will be difficult as the depth there is thirty fathoms.

Officials of the C.N.A.C. emphatically deny the report that the plane itself or the occupants have been found.—Reuter.

PRES. ROOSEVELT TOUR PLANS

SAILING IN CRUISER IN JUNE

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Magazine, London, 1934. Received April 17, 9.41 a.m.)

Washington, April 16.
It is learned that President Roosevelt is planning to sail on June 23 on a trip to the West Indies, Panama and Hawaii, depending on whether or not Congress has adjourned.

The President is expected to make use either of the U.S.S. Houston or of the U.S.S. Indiana, both of which are ten-thousand-ton cruisers, and will be escorted by two destroyers.—United Press.

SILVER BATTLE IN AMERICA

Immediate Passage Demanded

Washington, Apr. 16.
A special Senate Silver Committee meeting to-day unanimously demanded the immediate passage of silver legislation.—Reuter.

SILVER SELLING DELUGE

AMERICANS BEGIN TO UNLOAD

NOT EXPECTED TO CONTINUE

London, Apr. 16.

Late this afternoon the London silver market experienced a sudden wave of selling on American account.

The deluge of orders appears to have been caused by a statement attributed to Mr. Henry Rainey, Speaker of the House of Representatives, that President Roosevelt was proceeding with silver legislation now.

Although prices shed a furthering after the official close and although a small amount of business was done at even three-eighths under the official fixing, the market was not unduly perturbed at what is considered to be a shake-out of the weaker bulls.

It is pointed out that the silver bloc in Congress have not diminished their determination to pass the silver bill.—Reuter.

STATEMENT DENIED.

Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz have received a cable revealing a similar upset on the New York market, a sharp break occurring upon the uncovering of stop loss orders. The statement of Mr. Rainey was later denied. It is believed that the decline was overdone with partial recovery likely to-day.

THE RAINEY STATEMENT.

Washington, April 16.
The statement attributed to Mr. Rainey was to the effect that "silver legislation will not be included in the Administration's programme during this session of Congress as President Roosevelt doubts the advisability of going ahead with the legislation now, preferring to continue present purchasing powers under the London Conference Silver Agreement."

Mr. Rainey said, according to the report, that he understood the Treasury was buying all newly-mined silver in the United States and that Canada, Mexico, Peru and Spain were doing the same regarding their sources of supply.—Reuter.

SILVER PROBLEM

U.S. Minister to Meet Professor Rogers

(Special to "Telegraph")

Peking, Apr. 17.
It is learned from the American Legation that Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, American Minister to China, will proceed to Hankow early next week, whence he will proceed to Shanghai to meet Professor Rogers.

He is expected to consult with Professor Rogers on the silver issue.—Central News.

Arrested in the street, a young woman, Ho Pui-ying, was found to have 810 Hongkong Yee Chong Po-pai lottery tickets concealed in her girdle. Brought before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning, she was fined $200 with the alternative of three weeks' hard labour. Inspector James prosecuted.

GERMANY'S NOTE TO BRITAIN

RE-ARMAMENT SCHEME DENIED

HEAVIER COSTS EXPLAINED

London, Apr. 16.

Germany's explanation of the heavy increases in her provisions for military purposes is that no rearmament is involved, the extra expenditure being for long-needed replacements.

The Note addressed by the German Foreign Minister to the British Ambassador in Berlin in the reply to the enquiry regarding the increases in the German naval, military and air estimates, was presented to the House of Commons by the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, in reply to a question.

The Note states that, in regard to the estimates for the army, 654.6 million Reichsmarks, which represents an increase of 172 millions, the "increased expenditure is necessary for the preparations due to take place in course of the budget year for the conversion of the Reichswehr into a short service army."

The allocation of these sums in the budget for this purpose arises from the state of the negotiations in regard to the disarmament question.

NAVY OBSOLESCENCE.

Expenditure for the naval budget has been estimated at 236 million Reichsmarks. This increased expenditure of 50 millions is due to the increasing cost of the systematic renovation of long since obsolete units of the German fleet, the replacement of which, partly on the ground of the security of the crews, can no longer be postponed.

The Budget of the Air Ministry cannot be regarded as an armament budget. It consists of a budget for air transport and a budget for air protection. It is estimated that the expenses for air transport will amount to 160 million Reichsmarks against the previous year's 77 millions.

AIR SUBSIDY.

This increase is due to the replacement of the obsolete aeroplane material of the private German air transport company, Luftansa, which, as in other countries, receives Government subsidies; to expenses necessary for increased security in air, and for the installation of lighting and wireless direction-finding systems owing to winter operations and night flying on long distance lines; and to the development of overseas air transport and of scientific investigation in the sphere of air transport generally.

Estimates for air protection amount to 50 million Reichsmarks.

AIR RAID PROTECTION.

In last year's budget only 13 million Reichsmarks were provided for this purpose since the organisation of air protection was, at that time, only in its first stage. The newly-developed organisation is devoted to the protection of the civil population against air attack. Its activity consists in the erection of gasproof cellars, the training of squads for the rendering harmless of poisonous gases, the development of a fire extinguishing system, the training of special squads for warning, technical repairs and the rendering harmless of poisonous gases and other similar measures.—British Wireless.

THE LATE MR. OTTO KAHN

New York, April 16.

The late Mr. Otto Kahn, the famous German-American banker, left personal estate valued at about U.S. $16,000,000, which is equally divided between his four children. His widow is otherwise adequately provided for.—Reuter.

"FATTENING" FOODS ARE SLIMMING!

By a Dietetic Expert

Fat bacon, the fatter the better; fried pork or veal; steak cooked in butter; fried fish of the richer order, such as salmon, turbot, herring; as much cream as you like... that, with fruit and vegetables in any quantity, and the minimum amount of exercise, is one of the new ideas for a slimming regime.

Crazy...? Well, not so crazy, for it is a diet that is prescribed by a leading doctor for stout patients who wish to get their weight back to normal.

How does it work? Summing it up, you will see that there is very little sugar in this diet. It is intended to slim by destroying poisonous matter and germs in the system. The fruit and vegetables (the latter served with butter), which are an important part of this diet, are taken as separate courses. This is a vital point in any slimming regime.

The habit, especially among English people of eating meat and vegetables together is wrong, dietetically speaking. Just as wrong as that popular partnership fruit and cream. Potatoes need not be given up altogether. Served plainly and eaten alone, they will do less harm than a roll and butter taken as an adjunct to a heavy meal.

Grilled or even fried foods, so long as the fat or oil in which these are cooked is of the finest quality and is thoroughly drained off before serving, can vary the diet of the not-so-slim without danger of flesh-forming. A rice dish, such as the one described in this page on Wednesday, or even macaroni, can be taken, but should form a meal in itself.

A well and truly cooked milk pudding, owing to the fact that it changes its form from starch to dextrin in the cooking, makes another excellent, easily digested meal. I stress the word meal, for milk puddings should not be taken after a heavy meat course.

Sugar in reasonable quantities is a necessity, and can be taken in many ways. Your dentist will tell you that it is not so harmful to the teeth as a diet that contains a disproportionate amount of starch.

In whatever form it comes to the table, milk being a food in itself, is better taken alone. When you boast of "eating nothing for breakfast" and you have, regularly every morning, toast and marmalade washed down with large cups of milky coffee, remember this fact.

Coffee After Meals

Many women, on a slimming diet abuse the drinking of coffee. It is as bad a form of abuse as any other, but it is as well to bear in mind the fact that coffee-drinking nations are inclined to sallowness and to put on weight. A small cup of black coffee after the main meal of the day is the time and place to which coffee unerringly belongs. In its right place and in right quantities, coffee can do no harm. Taboo are such dishes as fricassees or saute and casserole concoctions, with their rich garnishments.

Rather smart, don't you think? And it's made up so easily in handkerchief linen or cotton print. The designs are in six sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 (with corresponding bust measures of 32, 34, 36 and 38) and also in 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 3 5-8 yards of 39 inch material plus 1-3 yard contrast for the bow and neckband cut crosswise or bias.

Although widely advocated, it has been proved that such popular features of a slimming diet as orange juice and spinach are not for everyone.

The cult of the salad is another feature that can be taken too far. Raw green food should never be eaten when you are tired, or if your meal is late at night, and it is important, at all times that it should be well masticated.

The most valuable part of the lettuce is the outer leaves. Instead of throwing the leaves away, wash them well, tear in small pieces and put in the salad. They have just as good a flavour as the heart—even better.

Esthetically, the tomato looks at its best decorating a deep bowl full of crisp, green lettuce. Gastronomically, it is best eaten alone, first having been stripped of its shining red coat. Onions, while a healthy food both in a raw and cooked state, should be taken in moderation.

As Gladstone Said.

Of diets and slimming theories there are no end. But on one point all experts, I think, agree. And that is on the importance of thorough mastication.

Ninety-nine people out of a hundred eat too fast, and as digestive troubles are responsible for a large preponderance of unwanted flesh among the human race, the moral is: Whatever you eat... EAT SLOWLY.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

Points on Purchasing Shoes

By Alicia Hart

When you start out to buy new spring shoes, put yourself in the hands of a man who knows how to fit feet.

It is estimated that a very great percentage of all foot ailments is caused by poor fitting shoes. If your shoes are too short, corns are likely to form on the tips of your toes. If shoes are too long, they have a tendency to slide up and down on your heels, causing blisters.

Bunions often come as a result of wearing narrow shoes. Arches ache and make you tired if your shoes are not designed for your particular type of foot.

Low heels are best for walking purposes. And the girl who likes to dance in shoes with medium heels will find some of the new spring styles right to her liking.

Stockings should be large enough to give your toes room to move about. At the same time, don't get them so long that they'll wrinkle and irritate your toes and heels.

Never wear the same pair of hose a second day without washing them. It takes very little time to wash your stockings when you remove them at night. The hose will last longer and your feet will be more comfortable the next day.

CHAPTER XXIV

Angela hobbled back to her shack and packed her belongings. There was scarcely more to do than to slip a bottle of gin in the front of her dress. This done, she hobbled forth again. She would go to the swamp for a little while, she decided. She did not wish to encounter the inquisitive strangers again. Picturesquely she cursed them. If their coming should disturb the monthly remittance from Cuba for caring for Pablito what would become of her?

She wept, whining vituperation and curses as she went. At the edge of the swamp she pulled her sagging skirts high and waded cautiously, a wary eye out for alligators and water moccasins. Again on land, she followed what was called the "Slave's Way" because years before many slaves had followed this route, seeking freedom.

When she stopped into the first clearing she jumped so that a twinge of rheumatism made her wince. Someone else had sought the shelter of the swamp—a man. "Good day, mother," he said easily. He too, looked startled. He hoped she had not noticed this but she had seen it and smiled shyly.

"It is a good day for a picnic," she said slowly.

"Will you share my meal?" he asked. She nodded as she sat down on a hummock not far from him. When she studied him. Soon when she felt it to be wise—she would return to Key West and tell the authorities that a man was hiding in the swamp in a spot to which she could direct them. She would do this, providing she could benefit by it. The probability of her benefiting she would make sure of before she spoke.

"You seek the solitude?" she asked blandly.

The man stirred, looking anxiously toward the shadow. "I am hunting orchids," he answered.

"Ah!" she thought, with an inward leer. "So you're hunting orchids! Already you look as if the dogs had chased you 100 miles."

He spoke a stiff variety of Spanish and she concluded that he was a northerner who had long been in hiding.

"God grant that you find your orchids!" she murmured, her blood-shot eyes fixed upon him.

She was certain now. The man was hiding from something or some one. And she would have her reward.

Above them the trees grew unusually high for swamp ground, making an impenetrable green-black roof. Now and again a leaf stirred gently, but usually quiet prevailed.

"It is a warm day, stranger, and you have hurried," she said with a thick pretence of concern.

"Yes," he admitted.

He took from his pocket then a gray handkerchief that Pablito had once kept white for him. With it he mopped his brow.

Pablito sent a messenger, a

Cuban youth, to the small island but the messenger could find no trace of Noyes. Storms had left sand thick and gritty upon everything within the shack, the Cuban boy testified, and the place looked as though it had been deserted for months.

"Nadie allí!" he repeated with a lift of the shoulders and out-flung hands. "Nadie!" ("Nobody there, nobody!")

"And you went into the swamp?" Pablito asked, his hard muscles strained and tense as he leaned forward over the bare-topped table.

The boy hesitated a moment. Then he spoke. He had gone into the swamp, he reassured his conscience. Not far, to be sure, yet he had gone into the swamp.

"Seguro que al, Señor?" He answered. ("Surely yes!")

Then he wiped his brow although the day was not over-warm, being freshened by a cool breeze that had had its start in a late, northern blizzard. That swamp, the Cuban boy feared, he would never forget.

The place had been as black as the inside of the devil's cauldron. Half way toward its darkest gloom he had come across a wicked old woman who had seemed a witch.

She was lying on a path with one leg twisted under her and she had screamed as he had never heard a woman scream.

He had backed away from her, asking haltingly: "Old woman, can I help you? May I send friends to you from Key West?"

Seeing her, he had decided that, sin or not, he could not touch her! And she had answered, shrieking: "No, no! Not from Key West! I have a daughter who will come to me. Go!"

Ah, her troubles! Angela thought through the pain that confused her. Help from Key West would deliver her into the power of the strangers who had inquired about the boy left in her care.

The orchid hunter would help her, she knew. He had the soft eyes which deny an enjoyment of torture.

"Go, stranger and with God!" she repeated between her groans.

So the Cuban boy had gone after one last glance toward the darkness of the shadows and after crossing himself.

Pablito, in the house of Cerro, sank back in his chair, his brow furrowed. He had grown older in a very short time. He was still sure that some day, somehow he would locate Noyes and that again they would dwell in that peace he now thought of as close to Utopia.

He arose to pay the messenger and the boy, reassuring himself of the fact that he had been in the swamp, went on his way.

Lotie appeared then. "Too bad, honey," she said, laying a hand on Pablito's shoulder. He realized that the only sincere kindness he knew these days came from Lotie. He thought: "Some time, in some way, I must repay her."

And this seed, spring from his sense of fairness, grew into a heavy sense of duty but his gratitude was to lie dormant longer than he could guess.

Norma Field and Estelle had settled in Tucson, Ariz. Norma, knowing that she could not live long, clutched the hours with Estelle jealously. Meanwhile she made a brave pretence of feeling better.

Estelle sat by her mother's bed constantly, watching with tragic young eyes and smiling stiffly.

"Darling, you should go out more; you should get more exercise."

"But I'd rather be here."

"I'm afraid it must be stupid for you, dear, panned up with me."

"I want to be here, mother."

Estelle thought a great deal during those days. She thought of the past and of what was ahead. She had begun to understand her father through his attitude about Pablito. He had been ruthless in refusing to listen to her defence of the boy.

He would be kind, she realized, so long as he had his way and wholly cruel if antagonized. She feared the years when she must be alone with him.

"Are you comfortable, mother?"

"Quite, dear heart—"

But her mother spoke slowly now with long gaps between her words and always there was the flush of fever on her sunken cheeks and the brightness of it in her eyes.

Norma Field died in October. The day was Estelle's sixteenth birthday, a day when the mountains were tinged with pink and gold and purple and the air was sparkling.

She had never seemed better. Estelle had laughed with her that morning over some trivial happening that had amused them both.

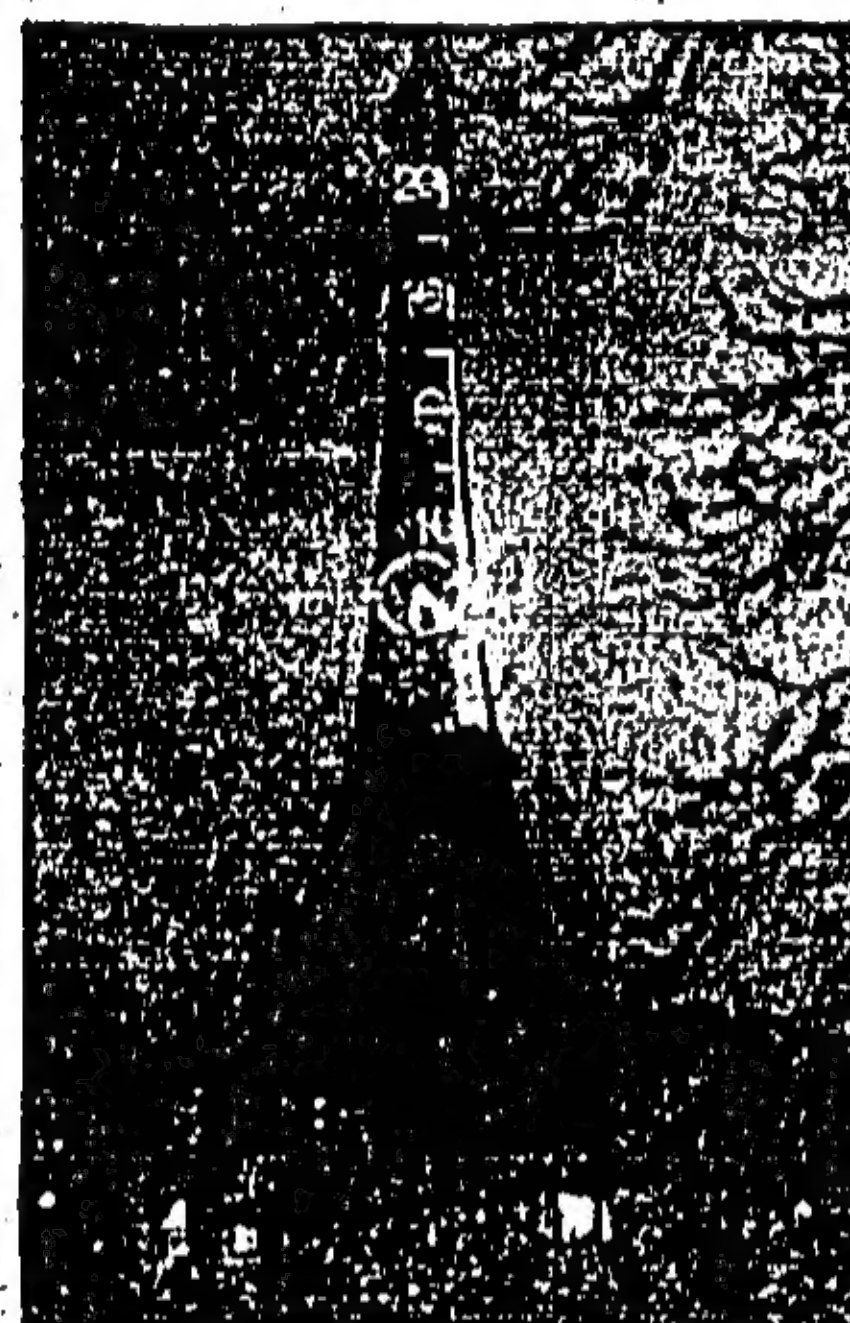

Then Mrs. Field had said she wanted to rest and Estelle had gone to the garden to look at the mountains, the changes of which never failed to entrance her.

She returned at luncheon time to meet the day nurse. "Dear, don't come in now!" the nurse ordered sharply. Estelle grew faint but the nurse did not stop to help her. She hurried back to her patient.

"Big" Field came soon. Estelle had not cried and did not cry until she saw her father. Then she clung to him, weeping hysterically. She felt his heart rise. She would be his now—all his.

"Never mind, darling. You have your daddy," he said soothingly, patting the girl's shoulder. He felt her clinging to him more tightly.

A somewhat remarkable escape from serious injury was experienced by a party of Chinese motorists on the Minghong Road on Easter Monday afternoon. A new Auburn car was being driven by a Chinese chauffeur round a bend about 15 kilometres from Shanghai when it got out of control and skidded on the loose ash surface, crashing into the parapet of a small bridge and falling into the creek below. There were seven Chinese passengers, all of whom escaped with nothing worse than a ducking and severe bruises.

He must be content with fame, rather than gold, as his recompense; but, again, that is the usual thing in dealing with governments. In addition to this there are more difficult barriers to pass. Chief of these is the ability to set the right tone for the proceedings.

The Senate investigations do not require the degree of dignity, or at least of formality, which is generally found in like investigations of parliamentary governments. But at the same time the line of decorum and indecorum is pretty clearly marked, and it rests on the committee counsel pretty largely as to whether that line shall be passed. The counsel must also strike the right balance in the delicate question of demeanor in dealing with mighty captains of finance and industry who appear in the witness chair. On the one hand, he must not be intimidated by them, while on the other he must press his interrogation with courtesy as well as firmness.

The problem is made no easier by the presence of Senators themselves. Mr. Pecora is flanked with Senators on either side in all his investigations. Now it is a part of American politics—unfortunate, perhaps, but true—that the mere sight of a Wall Street banker inflames the forensic ire of some Congressmen as a red flag does a bull. The desire to make a speech, to vindicate Honest Toil, American Manhood, Womanhood, or whatnot, becomes almost uncontrollable in public propensity to a plutocrat. A similar weakness has characterized legislators ever since the days of the ancient Greeks.

No fact speaks more highly for Mr. Pecora's force of character and diplomacy than that he has succeeded in mollifying the Senators of his committee; kept the control of affairs in his own hands, and in recent months practically moulded the course of the proceedings. This achievement is made the more brilliant by the unhappy experience of two or three lawyers who were hired for short intervals to precede Mr. Pecora, and who had a sorry time of it; not so much from the recalcitrance of witnesses as from the persistent desire among the Senators to do all the questioning themselves.

Mr. Pecora was born in Nicosia, Sicily. At the age of five he was brought to New York. He is the eldest of seven children. He went to Public School No. 55 in Manhattan and after being graduated completed a two-year "commercial course" in one year. His father had been converted to Anglicanism in Italy and joined the Episcopal Church in America, and the youngster entered St. Stephen's College, up the Hudson River, which is a training school for the General Theological Seminary, with the intention of entering the ministry. After a year of this, however, the economic needs of the family became too pressing to be resisted and the lad started work as office boy in a law firm. Eventually he was to get his law degree from the New York Law School, and become a partner in the firm.

Mr. Pecora joined Tammany Hall early and in 1918 was chosen as an assistant in the District Attorney's office. He served until 1929 and for the last six years of this time virtually ran the prosecutor's office as chief assistant. Part of his job was a crusade against "bucket shops," and he put almost one hundred of them out of business. This initiated him into the field of finance. Bank failures occurred, too, and Mr. Pecora instituted suits and proved law violations. Several bank officials went to jail. Finally, Mr. Pecora prosecuted several Tammany officials involved in milk scandals, and somewhat to his own surprise, found himself, shortly thereafter, out of work so far as the city was concerned. To-day he considers that it was the best thing that could have happened to him.

What he has done in the last year is to dramatize certain grave abuses in the American financial system. It has shown loopholes in the income tax law by which Mr. Morgan, for example, avoided payment of taxes for two years, while paying them under the stricter laws of Great Britain. It has shown the disadvantages of mingling banking affiliates with banking business, and it has revealed shocking instances of banking malpractice, in which high officials played the role of speculators or gamblers, and placed their own fortunes above those of their depositors.

All these facts, in a steady stream, for a year, have been poured out to the people of the Republic. The political effects of these revelations have been incalculable. At a time of general social and economic fermentation they have kept public attention fastened on the primary need of a housecleaning in Wall Street. Such a housecleaning was long overdue, and probably would have occurred in any event. But Mr. Pecora and the Senate committee made its occurrence inevitable.

GERMAN REPLY

BRITAIN'S QUERY ON ARMAMENTS

London, Apr. 16. Sir John Simon announced in the House of Commons to-day that the German Government had replied to the British inquiry concerning increased armaments expenditure, as indicated in the recently announced Berlin budget. The German Government had supplied the information in the form of a note, said the Foreign Secretary, the relevant portion of which would be published. Asked if the note showed that German re-armament was proceeding to a considerable extent, Sir John replied that "it would in the interests of us all if we examined the note before I answer that question."—Reuter.

TIN RESTRICTION.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS JOINS SCHEME

Singapore, Apr. 16. The Legislative Council to-day passed through all its stages the Tin Production Restriction Bill which will bring the Straits Settlements into line with the Malay States and other tin-producing areas. The Straits Settlements hitherto have been outside the scope of the restriction scheme and their agreement has been widely sought.—Reuter.

RESTORATION OF WAGES

BUDGET SURPLUS BRINGS HOPE

London, Apr. 16. Newspapers to-day regale the public with glowing anticipations of what the Chancellor of the Exchequer will do with the budget surplus during the coming year. This surplus is variously estimated at between £40,000,000 and £50,000,000.

Optimistic prophets are sure that Mr. Chamberlain will restore all wage cuts except in the case of Cabinet and House of Commons members' salaries. But they have not yet decided whether he will reduce the income tax by sixpence, which will cost the Treasury £27,000,000, or restore the exemption allowances, which will cost £24,000,000.

The Unemployment Fund is now receiving excess revenue at the rate of £16,000,000 annually owing to the decrease in unemployment could restore the wage cuts unaided. It is argued. The Treasury might shoulder part of the cost of the Fund's annual debt redemption charge, they say.

The reduction of taxes on petrol, motor cars, cinema seats and whisky are anticipated with relish in various quarters.

All agree, however, that another

TWO SHAMSHUIPO LOTS SOLD BY PUBLIC AUCTION

Two lots at Shamshuiipo were auctioned at the offices of the Public Works Department, yesterday, the purchasers in both cases being Chinese.

At $3 per sq. ft., a rectangular section bordering on Tung Chau Street, with an area of 2,002 sq. ft., was purchased by Mr. Shum Kee, of 145 Kiu Kiang Street. The owner did not disclose his plans in respect of this site, which is registered as New Kowloon Inland Lot No. 2203.

The second lot, registered as New Kowloon Inland Lot No. 1974, was offered at $2.00, and was purchased at this rate by Mr. Kong Sun, Powell's Building, who paid a total of $2,700. It is intended to build Chinese tenement houses on the site, which has an area of 1,110 sq. ft. and is situated at the junction of Apiti St. and Poplar St.

Both lots are held from the Crown for a period of 75 years, with option for extension for a further period of 24 years.

token payment on the War Debt will be the maximum provision made for the American instalment due.

Cautious prophets emphasize that two-thirds of last year's surplus consisted of windfalls, and that the revival of trade will be fully reflected until 1935-36. Mr. Chamberlain, they say, never budget speculatively.—Our Own Correspondent.

A SUNDAY BRIDE.

MISS ESTHER CARVALHO WED TO MR. CARLOS DA SILVA

Silver satin was chosen for her wedding gown by Miss Esther Maria de Sousa Carvalho, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Boltrao de Lucas Carvalho, when she married Mr. Carlos Maria da Silva, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armando Maria da Silva, last Sunday afternoon at the Rosary Church, Kowloon. The Rev. Fr. L. Rossi officiated.

The bride's silver satin gown was finished with a long train trimmed with a single spray of orange blossoms. Her long veil, set in place in the latest cap-like fashion, was also trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of arum lilies and maiden hair fern.

Four bridesmaids were in attendance. They were the Misses Emilia Carvalho, Carolina Silva, Carmen Silva and Cissy da Silva. Their frocks were of blue organdie and were set off with hats, gauntlets and muffs to match.

The bride's brother, Mr. Alvaro Botelho, gave her away, while Messrs. A. J. Reed and P. X. Soares performed the duties of best men.

After the ceremony, a large number of friends attended the reception held at No. 6, Jordan Road, which is the bride and bridegroom's new home.

A gown of blue French crepe and light coat, with hat, shoes and bag to match, was worn by the bride on leaving the reception. The honeymoon is to be spent in Japan.

NOURISHING A SCORPION

FRENCH COMMENT ON TROTSKY

Paris, Apr. 16. The Rightist newspapers are incensed by the discovery that M. Trotsky has been living in France and inveigh against the Government for allowing "a scorpion to be nourished" in the French bosom.

Echo de Paris demands an immediate judicial enquiry as to why a dangerous revolutionary has been given unheard of privileges to enable him to found a Fourth International.

Le Martin roundly attacks M. Chautemps, who was Minister for the Interior when permission to reside in France was given Trotsky.

The Leftist press, however, retorts that there has been much ado about nothing; Humanite denigrates the subtle plot to give publicity "to this renegade."

Now that the secret is out, it is expected that the Government will request Trotsky to seek another refuge.—Reuter.

IRISH AUTOCRAT.

DE VALERA'S MOVE TO ABOLISH SENATE

Dublin, Apr. 16. The Bill designed to abolish the Senate, the text of which has just been published, wipes out 16 Articles of the Constitution and deletes all reference to the Senate and two Houses of the Legislature.

If the Bill is passed, in future all measures passed by the Dail will automatically become law; hence it is assumed that Mr. De Valera does not intend to substitute another body for the Senate.—Reuter.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

CONCLUSION OF INQUIRY INTO MR. H. L. PEREIRA'S DEATH

A verdict of suicide was returned by the jury at the conclusion yesterday afternoon of the inquiry into the circumstances attending the death of Hector Lawrence Pereira, who died as the result of lysol poisoning at his residence, No. 25 Yuk Sau Street, on the night of March 22-23, Mr. Hamilton conducted the inquiry at the Central Magistracy.

The jury empanelled consisted of Messrs. R. H. Cain (foreman), A. G. Botelho and A. Abbas. The Coroner announced at yesterday's proceedings that Pansy Nanik, one of the witnesses at the inquiry, had taken lysol since the last hearing, but she had been discharged from hospital. He had had a talk with her in chambers, and she had now returned to her parents.

Cheung Yau, amah, employed by Mr. F. D. Pereira, brother of the deceased, testified that on the night of March 12 she was with her master's baby in the sitting room, when deceased came home about 10 p.m. Her master and mistress were in their room. There was a light on at the time and witness did not see anything unusual in the deceased, who walked straight to his own room.

Later in the evening, witness saw deceased leave his room to go into the lavatory, from where he returned holding an empty glass. Asked by the Coroner, witness said she heard no unusual sounds during the night. She did not know anything about the tragedy until the next morning.

Knew Deceased.

S. A. M. Markar, jeweller, of Hennessy Road, said he had known deceased for approximately a year. Deceased had given him three sums of money to keep these being $500 in November last, $120 on December 8 and a cheque for $45 on February 16. All this money was entered in the account of the deceased, who obtained it back by taking jewellery and cash from the shop. At the time of his death, deceased had an account of $8.75 with the shop.

Another witness was H. K. Mohamed, Mr. Markar's manager, who deposed to introducing Pansy Nanik to the defendant. This witness corroborated evidence that deceased had never mentioned anything about committing suicide. Police evidence was given by Detective Sergeant Fitches, and after a short adjournment, the jury returned a verdict of suicide.

RUBBER CONTROL

There is at the moment a good deal of speculation in many quarters as to the likelihood of rubber restriction plans being put into operation in the near future. Holland and Britain are now in communication on the subject, and it remains to be seen what the outcome of the exchange of views will be. Whatever the actual facts of the situation may be, there can be little doubt that many of the reports which have gained currency on this subject have had their origin in attempts to influence the share market. Industrially, Hongkong is not interested in the issue, but from the shareholders' viewpoint the developments are being closely watched here. The plea for restriction hitherto has been based largely on the alleged need of rescuing the industry from complete ruin, but facts and figures recently quoted in Singapore would seem to show that however bad things may have been, the present state of the industry is anything but discouraging. During last year, the consumption of crude rubber was about 7,000 tons in excess of the previous record total, and nearly 180,000 tons more than the total for 1932. Consumption in the United States was the third highest on record, while in the United Kingdom the year 1933 established a record. Moreover, in spite of the very heavy production, stocks at the close of the year were lower than during the preceding years, and everything points to a greater consumption this year than in 1933. Many of the Straits companies are paying dividends on last year's profits, and, according to the Straits Times, references are heard to interim dividends likely to be paid in the present year. As to how far the increased consumption is to be explained by expectation of an early restriction scheme causing purchases whilst prices are low, it would be difficult to say. There seems, however, a growing belief that what is really happening is that rubber is beginning to share in the general industrial recovery, and it is felt that restriction might stifle the new demand and lead to most undesirable results. Save as a last resort, restrictions are undoubtedly bad, for quotas inevitably mean complications and anomalies and the creation of expensive machinery for their working. As things are, it would probably be the sanest plan, as a prominent planter has suggested, for the industry and the Governments concerned to prepare a scheme of control and have it ready to carry into effect should it become clear that the only alternative is disaster.

NOTES OF THE DAY

ARMAMENTS AND FEAR

Heavy armaments are supposed to play a vital part in the breeding of the fear and suspicion that lead to war. The accepted pacifist view is that nations distrust one another when they go about armed to the teeth, and that to demonstrate preparedness is a certain way to set a neighbour thinking of a fight. Sometimes, though, it seems as if things do not follow that formula. A week or two ago, a huge British fleet was holding manoeuvres in the Leeward Islands, in the West Indies. It was the mightiest fleet England ever sent across the Atlantic. Not since the day of Rodney had so great a proportion of the empire's naval strength visited the edge of the Caribbean.

COMPARISON

And yet this demonstration aroused not a shadow of fear or suspicion in the United States. No one has risen to suggest that these manoeuvres mean that England is looking ahead to war with the United States. Indeed, it is likely that not one American in 50 even knew that the British fleet was on that side of the Atlantic. Of those who did know, hardly anyone thought twice about it. Compare that state of affairs with what happened a year or so ago, when the United States fleet held its manoeuvres off Hawaii. The whole Japanese nation became alarmed. The exercises were looked upon as a direct menace to Japan. It was asserted widely that preparation for war with Japan was the only possible motive for such action.

MATTER OF CONFIDENCE

The two cases are almost perfectly parallel, on the surface. But one passed unnoticed; the other led to an amazing amount of war talk. Why? Perhaps the answer is that armaments do not, in themselves, cause fear and suspicion, after all. If the national interests of two countries are in conflict, or seem to be, then military demonstration will provoke uneasiness and cause irritation; if fear and suspicion exist to begin with, in other words, fleet manoeuvres will bring them out into the open. But if they don't—if two nations know perfectly well that they are going to live peacefully, side by side, as the United States and England know it—then the admirals can parade their dreadnoughts when and where they please, and no one will think twice about it.

THE ASSYRIANS

Give history plenty of time, and it can create shifts in its never-ending pageant that will leave the observer amazed. It may take thousands of years, but in the end—from the standpoint of ironic contrast—the results are worth it. There are, for instance, those Assyrian refugees who are about to start on a long migration from the land of their ancestors to a colony along the upper reaches of the Amazon, in Brazil. These people, a mere handful, have been living in what now is the country of Iraq. They are among the most luckless of modern peoples. Last summer many were massacred by neighbouring tribesmen, and only action by the League of Nations is saving them from complete ruin.

BUILDERS OF NINEVEH

Under League auspices, a spot has been found for them in Brazil, and they are to be moved there en masse as soon as arrangements can be finished. This surely is one of the strangest twists that the pageant of history ever has taken. For these people are the surviving descendants of the Assyrians of old—the Assyrians who made their name mighty in the east, who built great Nineveh, swept down like destroying angels on such folk as the Israelites, and stood for the power and glory of temporal greatness in all its splendour.

HARASSED FRAGMENT

That was unimaginably long ago. The great city of Nineveh is a heap of sand and clay; the canals with which the Assyrians turned the bare plains of Asia Minor into garden spots dried up and disappeared centuries ago; the very name of what once was the most powerful nation in the world has become covered with dust, so that it sounds unreal and very far-off when we read about it in our Bibles or our history books. And here astoundingly, is a fragment of that far-away time surviving in the twentieth century—a pitiable, harassed fragment, saved from complete extinction only by the League of Nations, and exiled to a far-off jungle to start life anew! Of all the strange tales of history, this one is surely among the strangest.

THE SCOURGE OF WALL STREET

By RICHARD L. STROUT

Staff Correspondent, Washington Bureau of The Christian Science Monitor

NO country was lifted higher than the United States by the financial bubble of 1929. No country fell faster or harder in the collapse that followed. One of those periodic senatorial investigations which are so essentially a part of the American scene. The investigation made the reputation of Ferdinand Pecora.

For months, years; sometimes they seem interminable, hit-or-miss, random affairs; yet actually they dredge up the mountains of facts which form the raw material for future legislation and set the mould of public opinion for a generation to come.

Twenty years ago it was the celebrated Puff "money" inquiry. That brought John Pierpont Morgan before it. Samuel Untermyer made his reputation there.

To-day it is the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Once more a John Pierpont Morgan comes before it; and this time it is a swarthy-faced native of Sicily, son of a shoemaker, "scourge of Wall Street," who faces him.

For the past year or longer, Ferdinand Pecora has caused to parade before him, as counsel of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, the proudest captains of American banking. Many have come reluctantly but they have come, partly because they could not do otherwise in the face of a subpoena, and partly because the coming was in keeping with the way the Senate does things, and the tradition of American democracy. Some of these men have emerged with reputations enhanced, or at least, undimmed; others—and there have been a good many of them—have been less fortunate. A few have toppled from lofty places; a few have slunk away, broken men.

Mr. Pecora, through all this time, has had one motto.

"Pick the biggest"—whether it is the biggest bank, like the Union National; the biggest banking affiliate, like the National City Company; or the biggest banker, like Mr. Morgan. His object has been to throw the white light of publicity, which has a dazzling quality in Washington unknown to other lands, upon the operations of the American financial and speculative system; in short, to show the Tom, Dick, and Harry of the United States just what happens to their dollar when it goes into Wall Street.

An expose of this sort is like a marine expedition: it brings up strange phenomena from the dark green depths into which the dredge is plunged. Some of the material has made the nation gasp; some of it has made it smile; a good deal of it has made it grit its teeth with a grim look that betokens a resolve to extirpate malpractices and institute reform.

Through it all, Mr. Pecora has sat at the head of his long, low, unperturbed. Occasionally, he has mopped his forehead with a handkerchief, in the heat of Washington's summer. Occasionally, his voice has risen to angry emphasis over the recalcitrancy of some witness. But at the end of the day he has been calm and smiling. He has hobbled with newspaper men, kept on genial terms with Senators, and preserved a personal detachment as to witnesses, no matter how hard he has pressed them individually on the witness stand in the course of succeeding battles or wars.

In certain respects, no odder personality than Mr. Pecora ever sat in the important chair of counsel, in the long history of major senatorial investigations. There is a naive quality about him. The naïveté is coupled with a contradictory astuteness and subtlety as a lawyer that fully accomplishes its inquisitorial purposes. But behind this is a personal curiosity that begins where the professional investigation leaves off. There is a freshness and sparkle about his interest that never wears out. If there is one word that describes Mr. Pecora, it is resiliency. He does not have any of the Anglo-Saxon severity. He has a curiosity about the personality of each new witness which is as objective as that of a child regarding a new, brightly coloured ball. He wants to know, first, because he is hired to find out; and second, because he is intensely curious himself.

Mr. Pecora forgets any controversy that occurred in his examination the minute the witness is excused. He carries no animus from the Senate table. Furthermore, he carries, as he once told the writer, "no problem to bed with him." It is a singular gift, possessed by few persons.

The same quality of detachment, combined with an easy transition of moods and a personal interest in the affairs under consideration, produces a frequent alteration of demeanour during the examination of individual witnesses. There is good-natured banter. Most of the witnesses do not dislike Mr. Pecora. They may frot and fume over the facts which they are forced to spread on the record, but it never comes to a personal issue with the inquisitor; Mr. Pecora is far too skilled a lawyer for that. He does not bully witnesses; he resists even the terrific senatorial temptation to "browbeat" bank presidents. For this reason, he is all the better able to extract and put on the record the material which his committee is really interested in—facts, always facts, let them damage whom they may.

The Very Idea!

HOW WE BEGAN

By George

IN these days of depression when so many people's only job is looking for one it might be well if we should print our idea of how a job should be got. Of course all jobs can't be got like we got ours, but then there aren't many other jobs like ours.

The scene is in any room within reason; the time anytime within season; the characters anyone you please.

Editor: (sitting back in chair holding paper with bored expression) Come in, young man, come in. You want to be a journalist, eh? And you want a job, eh?

Ourself: (wearing choir-boy's celluloid collar and look of man-about-town) Yessir.

Editor: Well the first thing you must learn is not to be cynical. Take that Seraphic collar off your neck!

Ourself: Yessir.

Take collar off.

Editor: It takes more than cynicism to make a journalist nowadays. It takes enthusiasm and optimism. Enthusiasm to get a job and optimism to persuade oneself he's going to hold it.

Ourself: Yessir.

The Editor: The journalist of yesterday was a gentleman by the standards of to-day and the journalist of to-day only attains that status in his obituary notice.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: A journalist is always infallible to the public but he never does anything right to the boss.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: This is the only profession where "no news is not good news." Remember Northcliffe, "Stories in bones and news in the running brook."

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: If a dog bites a man that's just natural but if a man bites a dog—?

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: No. It means he's hungry or is trying his new set out. As a journalist you must change your perspective.

Journalists get a bad name for borrowing in their attempts to get the human touch. They get a bad name for drinking in essaying the new angle. If they do neither they get called snobs and even Editors can't be snobs, Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: You are young yet and may give way to impulsive emotions but remember, never be a gentleman at our expense.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: You will find that we shall give you plenty of work to do but your sleeping hours will be your own and God help you if you spend them in the office!

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: Your conversation shows me that if you don't report you will at least never be reported, so I engage you for the job.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: Your first job will be to type out all we have said, take out the "Yessirs" and memorize it. Repeat it every day. Learn it well because you will only have time to say it in your sleep. After that bring me a copy of Punch and a cup of tea and let me know when our paper comes out.

Ourself: Yessir.

Exit with collar and job.

Twenty Years After

or The Editor's Broom Song
It was Monday in the morning, and the time was nine o'clock, we had that party yawning, as we heard the tea boy knock. And we stretched a leg, rolled back to bed and slept on and slept on like a rock.

The telephone bell tinkled, a letter came from home; the cold shower gently sprinkled, our shaving brush made foam. By eleven o'clock we were fit as a fop, and were wielding the old brush and comb.

It was Monday in the twilight, as we strolled in the old office door; we made sure that all was all right but we hadn't the time to do more; so we turned out the light, bade the watchman goodnight and went out through the old office door.

HUANG FU AND NANCHANG

BRIEF STATEMENT TO JOURNALISTS

REFUTES MANY RUMOURS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, April 17. General Huang Fu, Chairman of the Peking Political Council, made an important statement at a press conference last night regarding the North China situation.

He said that satisfactory results had been obtained at the Nanchang conference, which concentrated its attention on the North China situation and the "Red" suppression problem.

He said that the situation in North China did not warrant the excitement shown recently by the public.

He denied that the Nanchang Conference had discussed the problem of the restoration of postal and railway communication with Manchukuo and said that such reports were issued from irresponsible quarters.

He admitted that the Japanese authorities had made numerous requests in relation to the restoration of the status quo in the ex-war zone, but they had not made any exorbitant demands, which, as alleged in other than official circles, had led to the creation of a "serious situation" in North China.

LORD TYRRELL'S RESIGNATION

WARM TRIBUTE BY FOREIGN SECRETARY

London, Apr. 16. Lord Tyrrell's long and distinguished career as British Ambassador in Paris ends to-day. He will return to London to-morrow.

Sir John Simon, in a telegram, to Lord Tyrrell says:—"His Majesty's Government wish me to express to you their sincere thanks for your manifold and invaluable services. I should like to add an expression of my own gratitude for all the advice and assistance which you have afforded to me while I have been Secretary of State. Your constant contribution in maintaining and furthering Anglo-French relations is deeply appreciated by your fellow-countrymen."

Lord Tyrrell replied:—"I deeply appreciate the generous message from His Majesty's Government and beg you to accept for yourself and convey to your colleagues my gratitude for their appreciation of my services. I very much regret the decision imposed upon me by my health to sever my official relations with you, which have always aimed at the continuation and promotion of Anglo-French relations, so vital to the maintenance of the peace of the world."

ferred for investigation to the Committee of Privileges.

Mr. Churchill contended that a series of negotiations with the Indian Section of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce amounted to pressure being brought to bear upon them to procure a fundamental alteration in the evidence already submitted to the Joint Select Committee on Indian Constitutional Reform.

Mr. Churchill asserted that pressure was exerted by the Government and came primarily from the Secretary for India, Sir Samuel Hoare, but arose also from the fact that Lord Derby, who was a leading member of the Joint Select Committee, interviewed members of the Chamber of Commerce and counselled them to alter their evidence. Eventually the evidence was withdrawn and an entirely different document presented.

The Speaker ruled that Mr. Churchill had made out a prima facie case.

Sir Samuel Hoare welcomed an impartial investigation. He thought the Committee would find that the alteration in the memorandum was due to representatives of the Lancashire delegation at that time in India. Enquiry, he said, would prove that Mr. Churchill had found another man's nest.

Opposition leaders supported the resolution and the Prime Minister expressed the Government's full concurrence.—British Wireless.

NAVAL SOCCER

Wild Swan & Verity Draw In Final

Tremendous enthusiasm was aroused in the final of the H.M. Ships Soccer Competition played yesterday afternoon on the Naval Yard ground, between the Wild Swan and the Verity.

The game was very keen, and resulted in a draw, each side scoring a goal. Extra time was played, but neither side could press home the advantage.

Talkoo v. Wayfoong.

The team to represent Talkoo (Butterfield and Swire) in the annual Hong Kong match against Wayfoong (Hongkong Bank) to-day will be as follows:—G. R. M. Ricketts; R. G. Castleton and F. D. Hunter; W. C. Knowles; J. D. H. Crawford; R. Miller; J. F. Lawrie; E. Moore; H. J. Chwie; D. McI. Campbell and J. Finlay.

Charged before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning with the possession of 13 counterfeit Hongkong ten-cent pieces, Pau Sing, aged 24, unemployed, pleaded he was a beggar and picked the money up in the street. He did not know what the money was. Inspector James said they were obvious counterfeit. Three weeks' hard labour was imposed.

PROMOTION RACE

BRADFORD FORCED TO DROP OUT

SECOND DIVISION FOOTBALL

London, Apr. 16.

North County to-day defeated Bradford in a Second Division match, scoring the only goal. The result has an important bearing on promotion and relegation problems. North County have little further reason to fear relegation. Bradford's interest in promotion has virtually ceased.

In the Scottish League, Motherwell won comfortably at Tynecastle Park, Edinburgh, defeating Hearts of Midlothian by three goals to one.

The struggle for promotion in the Second Division presents an extremely interesting problem. Brentford (47 points), Bolton (47) and Preston (46) are left in the race, with the following fixtures:

Brentford	v. Hull City (a)
	v. Lincoln (h)
	v. Bury (a)
Bolton	v. Swanssea (a)
	v. Millwall (h)
	v. Lincoln (a)
Preston	v. Swanssea (a)

Sergeant Francis Bernard William Edward Pratt, of the Hongkong and Singapore Brigade, Royal Artillery, made another appearance at the Kewloon Magistrate's court yesterday afternoon in connection with charges of having delayed certain postal packets. Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney-General, was for the prosecution, while Mr. D. L. Strellett appeared for the defence. PICTURESQUE OPENING OF BASEBALL SEASON WASHED OUT

RAIN STOPS PRESIDENT FROM THROWING FIRST BALL

FULL PROGRAMME IN MAJOR LEAGUES SCHEDULED FOR TO-DAY

Washington, Apr. 16. The elaborate arrangements made for the opening of the major baseball season to-day were washed out by rain.

President Roosevelt attended ready to throw out the ball to set the season in motion at the Washington Senators and Boston Red Sox American League encounter, but he and thousands of eager fans were disappointed.

The teams later set for Boston where they are due to play to-morrow, when seven other major games are also scheduled.

To-day's opening games follow:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

St. Louis Browns at Cleveland Indians.
Detroit Tigers at Chicago White Sox.

Washington Senators at Boston Red Sox.
New York Yankees at Philadelphia Athletics.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Boston Braves at Brooklyn Dodgers.
Philadelphia Phillies at New York Giants.
Pittsburgh Pirates at St. Louis Cardinals.
Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati Reds.

BASEBALL NOTES

Latest Advice From The Major Club Camps

PRESIDENT Comiskey, of the Chicago White Sox, feels that the team will have a very successful 1934 season. There have been no salary troubles or other worries during the winter to harass either the owners or the players and everything points to smooth sailing.

CHARLES DILLON (Casey) Stengel has been appointed manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, in succession to Max Carey. He has signed a two-year contract and, it is understood, will receive at least as much as his predecessor, who was paid off at the rate of $12,000 per year on his unexpired 1934 contract.

TONY LAZZERI, second baseman, has signed for his tenth successive season with the New York Yankees, and John Pepper Martin, hero of the World Series of 1932, has affixed his signature to a contract for the coming season, with the St. Louis Cardinals, at what he described as "a satisfactory figure."

WALTER JOHNSON, leader of the Cleveland Indians, thinks that the Washington Senators are a threat to win the pennant again this year. He also stated that he believes the New York Yankees are on the decline and that the coming season's team will be but a shell of the once mighty team which ranked highest in baseball.

THE new and livelier ball apparently will help the Brooklyn Dodgers this season. The natives of Orlando, Florida, where the Dodgers are in training, were boasting that a baseball had never been hit over the 14-foot high right-field fence at Tinker Park. The Dodgers put a stop to their boasting by doing it three times in one day.

EDDY RIXEY, regarded as the Dean of big league pitchers, has given up baseball for good. The forty-three year old left-hander of the Cincinnati Reds has played for 21 years in the National League and was the only Red pitcher last year to win more games than he lost. In his whole career he won 260 games, lost 251, pitched 6,629, fanned 1,250 men and allowed 4,033 hits. For nine years he played with the Philadelphia Phillies and then switched to the Reds in 1924. He has been with them ever since.

OFFICIALS of the San Francisco Baseball Club offered to pay Babe Ruth's $35,000 salary if he would play the 1934 season in the Pacific Coast League. Ruth, however, is getting himself in trim for yet another summer with the Yankees.

GIANTS AND LEAGUE PENNANT

Baseball Champions Favoured

FOR 1934 TITLE

Miami Beach, Fla. The New York Giants, 1933 world champions, should win this year's National League pennant.

This is the opinion of Jack Doyle, the Broadway betting commissioner who handles more baseball money than any other layer of odds in the United States. Doyle is down here watching the Giants and what he has seen so far has impressed him with the wisdom of his figures, which have established the world champions 3 to 2 favourites to repeat.

The Broadway betting commissioner points out that in all the history of the New York club, only one pennant winner has failed to come through for two straight—and even that one might have succeeded but for the coming of a war. The 1917 team was ousted by the Cubs the following season, but only because Virgil Barnes, Rube Benton and other Giants had joined the Army.

Jack's table of odds is most interesting. He figures the Cubs as likely to furnish the most vigorous opposition, with the Pirates third and the Braves or Cardinals fourth.

CRITICS DIFFER.

Doyle's American League rating favours the Washington Senators to repeat last year's pennant victory, while his table ranks the Yankees second, Red Sox third, Cleveland fourth, Philadelphia fifth and then Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis. Other critics, however, are firmly of the opinion that despite having sold Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg and George Earnshaw, Connie Mack still has a first-division club and that the Mackmen will finish among the first three.

LOCAL LEAGUE

Meeting Called For To-morrow

Mr. P. F. Le Fèvre, President of the Hongkong Baseball League, has called a meeting of all league members for to-morrow at 5:30 p.m., at his office, Texas Company.

The following will attend this meeting:—South China Athletic Club (Champions), Hongkong Americans, United States Navy, Japanese. Plans for the 1934 season will be discussed and it is presumed that the season will commence very shortly. It is rumoured that there will be two new teams entering the league this season, namely, the Portuguese and the Chinese Athletic Union, a new organisation recently formed in Hongkong.

Movies, stage appearances, gay night clubs and even lawsuits—they all are forgotten now by Max Baer as he starts work for his title shot at Primo Carnera at Madison Square Garden June 14. "I've been waiting for a crack at the heavyweight crown ever since I put on Levisons, and I'll win it, too," avers Maxie. He's shown here in his first workouts at a North Sacramento gymnasium, and you'll note that despite his sojourn in Hollywood, Baer isn't carrying a lot of excess weight. With Baer is Mike Cantwell, in charge of training.

COMPLETE DRAW IN K.C.C. TENNIS TOURNAMENT

RECORD CROWDS FOR THE OLYMPICS

Confidently Anticipated By Organisers

The Operating Department of the Tenth Far Eastern Championship Games yesterday released the definite seating capacity of the different stadiums which will be used during the May games. All in all, there will be a total number of 35,562 seats available in all the fields. Of this number, 576 are box chairs; 4,418 are numbered chairs; 3,707; unnumbered and 16,700 are bleachers seats.

The officials of the P.A.A.F. are doing all possible means to insure the comfort and ease of the Olympic fans. A number of upholstered chairs will also be placed for those who are willing to pay a bigger sum. Loud speakers will be installed in all the different fields in order to facilitate the announcements of results and entries to the many events happening in other parts. An electric score board is the latest innovation to be thought of by the P.A.A.F. officials. With all these different devices to meet the needs of the sport fans coming to the Olympic games, a large multitude, the largest ever to witness any sports activity in the islands is expected to attend.

A large influx of rabid sport fans from the southern islands especially from Hilo, Negros and Cebu are expected to come a week or two before the Olympic games. In order to attract a still greater number to come to Manila, the different shipping companies may issue special round trip rates for the whole Olympic season.

The following is the seating capacity of the different stadiums in the Rizal Memorial Fields:

Hockey Programme Upset

VISIT OF SINGAPORE TEAM

(By "Bully-Off")

Owing to the inability of the H.K. Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation to obtain the use of the South China Football ground at Caroline Hill on the dates fixed for games between local representative sides and the Overseas Chinese hockey team from Singapore, the whole programme has had to be re-arranged.

The H.K.C.A.A.F. have notified the Hongkong Hockey Association that they have obtained permission to use the Hongkong Football Club ground from April 22 until April 25, and request them to arrange a tentative programme on those dates which will be submitted to the visitors for approval when they arrive to-morrow on the s.s. Talma.

The suggested programme is as under:
April 22 v Services.
April 23 v H.K. Chinese.
April 24 v Colony.
April 25 v Civilian.
The Chinese showed up very promisingly in their trial game yesterday and R. H. Wong is confident that he will be able to field a strong side to oppose the visitors. Playing two short trials the Chinese defeated the K.I.T.C. by three goals to two. Another trial is to be held on Thursday next.

FEWER CONTESTANTS FOR THE SENIOR TITLE

FORMER SCOTTISH JUNIOR CHAMPION IN LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP

TIES TO BE PLAYED IMMEDIATELY

Although entries in the men's open championship are somewhat less than last year, the other events in the K.C.C. annual tennis tournament have been well supported as was revealed by the draw made last night.

There are nine contestants for the men's title held by E. C. Fincher, and a coincidence of the draw is that the holder meets S. A. Gray in his first match for the third year in succession.
W. C. Hung in the top half has only to fear A.E.P. Guest in his progress to the final.
Miss Madge Griffiths has to beat Miss Alison Mackenzie in the first round, and this should be her only stiff opposition to the final. The holder will undoubtedly meet Mrs. W. H. Wilson, the former Scottish Junior champion in the final.

Wright and Gray, last year's winners of the men's handicap doubles have a thorny path to tread. Their first opponents are W. C. Hung and W. Zimmermann, and the winners then meet either W. Hyde and J. Rodger or F. Grose and Guest.

LEAGUE FOOTBALL TO-MORROW

WILL AFFECT CHAMPIONSHIP

CURIOUS PENALTY INCIDENT

(By "Veritas").

The Borderers meet the Navy on the Kowloon F. C. ground to-morrow in one of the first of four important league football matches, the results of which will decide the senior championship.

At Caroline Hill, St. Joseph's and Police meet for league points in a match brought forward from Saturday next. The result is of prime importance to the Saints who cannot afford to drop another point in their quest for the title.

Both matches are scheduled for 5 p.m. Borderers and St. Joseph's anticipate fielding regular teams, and the Navy will probably turn out a similar side to that which drew with Lincoln a fortnight ago. Here are the four possible line-ups:

St. Joseph's:—Marques: Souza and A. V. Gosano: Marques, Beltrao and Elms: B. Gosano, Ward, Leonard, Kocho and Costa.

Police:—McHardy: Blackburn and Perkins: Brittain, Gough and Parker: Pile, Green, Shephard, Brooks and Manning.

Borderers:—Smith: Mullane and Morrison: Davies, Podmore and Underwood: Mathias, Huzlewood, Portey, Jones and Duncan.
Navy:—Pepper: Liddington and West: Forrest, Pyatt, and McGuire: Roberts, Smith, O'Donnell, Wilcock and Shortbrook.

WHAT HANGS ON RESULTS.

Only St. Joseph's and the Borderers are affected by the outcome of these games. If both draw their league positions remain unaltered, with the Borderers holding a slight advantage. If St. Joseph's drop one or two points and the Borderers win, the latter would appear to be safe for the championship. Should the Borderers lose and the Saints win, the latter will be strongly placed and needing but a draw from their encounter with the 24th next week.

The present standings of the four leading teams in the first division are:

	P.	W.	D.	L.	Goals	Pts.
St. Joseph's	19	14	3	2	45	31
Borderers	18	15	0	3	31	30
Lincoln	20	13	2	5	23	28
Navy	18	11	4	3	30	26

SUNDAY'S PENALTY REVELATIONS.

I understand the Football Association is to hear more about that penalty awarded the Chinese in the Governor's Cup match on Sunday. To onlookers, the reason for the referee's decision was somewhat obscure, but it was generally thought that somebody had handled the ball.

It now transpires that that one of the defenders allegedly struck a Chinese during the scramble round the goalmouth.

It is this, he so, it was a pretty serious breach of rules, and one calling for at least for admonition from the referee. Yet I believe nothing was said to the player until after the match, when the reason for the penalty was being discussed among the players.

On the face of it there seems to be room for a thorough investigation by the F.A., even if it is only to justify the positions of those directly involved in the incident.

AMATEUR RACKETS

I. Akers-Douglas Again
Champion

London, March 20. Ian Akers-Douglas won the Amateur Rackets Singles title for the third time, at Queen's Club yesterday, by defeating A. M. Hedley by 3 games to nil (15-9, 15-3, 17-16). Throughout this competition Hedley has shown himself not only a player of some fine strokes, but he goes out for his shots in exhilarating fashion. That is, indeed, somewhat of a handicap to him at present, and experience will, no doubt, teach him later to temper his brilliance with discretion.

He had a great opportunity of taking a game off the champion in the third, for he led 14-8. He could not, however, make that last point to win, even when he had a second chance after leading 2-1 in the set of 3. Hedley hit wildly when a little coolness would have given him the game. He was put out twice without scoring, and Akers-Douglas drew level at 2-1, and then won the match with a well-played angle shot.

Akers-Douglas had started rather slowly, and Hedley led 1-1 in the first game and again 8-5. Akers-Douglas had then fairly warmed up, and a run of 8 put him on top. From 13-9 the holder went to 6-0 in the second game, another run of 8, before being put out with a good-length return by Hedley, and getting in again at 3-8, he won the game with a run of 7.

Hedley served particularly well at the beginning of the third game, and went to 5-0, four of them by service, in his first hand, and smaller runs gave him a lead of 13-4, but Akers-Douglas was a tireless and clever opponent, and Hedley could never clinch his tentative advantage.

HOCKEY

NAVY BEAT THE ARMY

NEW CHAMPIONS

In the return match in the Triangular Hockey Tournament, the Navy beat the Army by six goals to four on the Navy ground, King's Park, yesterday afternoon. The Navy have, therefore, won the Tournament with the Army runners-up. The Hongkong Hockey Club are the wooden spoonists.

The Navy started in brilliant fashion, their forward line combining well, and they scored their first goal through Lieut. Bartlett, followed by Lieut. Donald a few minutes later.

The Army then scored through Lieut. Garthwaite and the Navy went ahead through Lieut. Curry and Lieut. Eaden.

Prior to the interval, the Army scored their second goal through Kerkar Singh.

In the second half, the Navy added two more goals, the marksmen being Lieut. Bartlett and Lieut. Curry. Their forward line lacked combination, however.

As the result of a splendid rally, in which Lieut. Hocquard on the right wing and Lieut. Singh on the left were prominent with some fine centres, the Army obtained their third point through Kerkar Singh, and Dulla Singh added a fourth shortly afterwards.

Towards the end, Senior just failed to score after a good effort. The Army were pressing at the close of play.

A notable absence from the Army team was Lieut. Roisler, whose place at left back was taken by Lance Corporal Bentley, also of the Lincolnshire. For the Army, Lieut. Melville, at right back, and Dulla Singh, at centre half, played very well, while for the Navy, Surgeon Lieut. Comdr. Phillips was very sound at left back.

CHAMPIONSHIPSMASHE! ARAGON
IN SEMI

Manila, April 13. Leonardo Gavia, Jr., smashed his way into the finals of the national open tennis championship by decisively defeating Guillermo Aragon in three straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 in one of the semi-final matches yesterday at the Laong Laan courts. He qualified to meet Paquito Aragon, one time local tennis king pin who crushed Felix Ampon's pennant aspirations in the other semi-final match, score 7-5, 6-2, 7-5.

Using his effective service to advantage yesterday, Gavia had the match well under control as G. Aragon failed to break through. In the first set, Gavia made quick work out of Aragon, allowing his opponent but one game. The Tondo lad proceeded to slaughter the older Aragon in the next sets with his lightning service and fierce overhead smashes, copping them in grand style.

G. Aragon's chops were no match against Gavia's forehand drives which worked in good order throughout the match. Aragon's best efforts earned him two games in each of the last two sets.

Paquito Aragon's impressive victory over Ampon yesterday brings him nearer to what is expected as a brilliant comeback after laying off for sometimes due to lung ailment. The way Paquito slashed his way to the finals over Ampon has stamped him as a dangerous contender for the premier honours this year.

Showing his old time form which brought him to the top of the pile in the past, Aragon copped his match but not without opposition from the veteran Ampon.

The first set was closely contested, with Ampon pressing Paquito hard. The set was nobody's game until Paquito finally pocketed the last two games to take the set. In the second set, Aragon bested Ampon rather easily copping it with the score of 6-2. The third set was a repetition of the first with Aragon holding the upper hand, although Ampon fought gallantly to stem the tide.

China's Olympic KeenessENTHUSIASM IN CANTON

Manila, April 13. China is making big preparations for the Manila games next month.

Dr. C. T. Wang, an official of the China Amateur Athletic Federation is directing the preparations of China for the coming olympics. He will head the big athletic delegation of the Chinese, Republic that will vie for premier honours in the games to be held here.

News reports of the various activities of the Chinese athletic officials in connection with the taking part of China in the forthcoming olympics indicate that this country is determined to build up strong athletic teams that can give other competing nations in the meet strong opposition. Reports received in this city by local Chinese sportsmen also give indication that China will have strong representatives in the Tenth Far Eastern olympics.

All sections of China are now busy conducting athletic meets with a view to finding out the best material for the forthcoming olympics. Local committees in principal cities of China are directing the athletic meets. There is a strong rivalry among the different sections of China for making the olympic athletic delegation.

CANTON'S ENTHUSIASM.

Canton is out to place men on the China Far Eastern Olympic teams. A dispatch from Washington and published in a recent issue of The China Press has this to say regarding Canton's preparations for the big game in this city—"A keen interest is being taken in sports circles here in the forthcoming Far Eastern Olympic Games at Manila. A selection committee has been organized for choosing football, volleyball and basketball players and swimmers. Two football matches will be played early next month, one in Hongkong and the other here, at which players will be selected to represent South China."

"Canton is confident that the majority of the members of the Chinese football, volleyball and swimming teams which will go to Manila, will be Cantonese players and swimmers."

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

How five of the principal players in Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck's 20th Century Picture, "The Bowery", coming on Thursday to the Alhambra Theatre, happened to embrace acting careers is proof that there is no prescribed path or royal road to film fame. Lee Tracy, the star, declares he went into a one-horse vaudeville act following a try-out because he felt he would have been a failure in any business or profession and was wondering if there wasn't something in the world he could do well. Sally Blane was eating lunch in a restaurant and having no more idea of becoming a screen star than of flying to Mars—she was only fifteen. Wesley Ruggles, film director, walked up to her table, introduced himself and said she was just the type of girl he had been seeking for days to play in a picture he was then directing at Universal. Adolyn Doyle went into a movie theatre one night to see "A Bill of Divorcement" and was bowled over by her own resemblance to Katherine Hepburn. The next morning she went to the RKO studio, applied for the job of Hepburn's stand-in, and got it. Miss Hepburn, since then has helped Adolyn become an actress in her own right. Paul Henry, who started because he had an uncle who managed road shows and the Uncle thought Paul was big and strong enough to carry trunks and shift scenery. From this lowly status Paul worked up to prominence in the New York Junior Wood. Graduate of the Art Student's League, went to the New Playwrights Theatre in New York with the intention of designing sets and costumes. She was asked to play a bit in "The Bolt". From that day to this she has acted for a living. She scored a big success in the Broadway stage production of "Dinner at Eight" just before 20th Century Pictures signed her for "Advice to the Lovelorn," which United Artists is releasing.

"The Bowery"
The Gay Nineties are coming back in "The Bowery"! Hilarious fun, robust romance and naughty nights of Frank-and-Johnny times are promised with the arrival of Wallace Beery, George Raft, Jackie Cooper, Fay Wray, Pert Kelton and a host of other celebrities in "The Bowery" at the King's Theatre on Thursday. Of all the decades in American history, that from 1890 to 1900 seems to be the most popular in the times with photoplay audiences. So in tune with that expressed preference, "The Bowery" brings back the music and dances of the '90's, buxom chorus girls, hustled young lads, Mamie O'Grady with puffed sleeves, Bowery boys with puffed eyes, prize fights that were on the square, beer with a punch and love's young dream along "the liveliest mile on the face of the globe"—New York's world-famous Bowery. "The Bowery" reunites the two stars of "The Champ"—Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper who were teamed in 20th Century Pictures by M.G.-M. George Raft was loaned to Paramount, while Fox contributed its ace director, Raoul Walsh. Feminine interest in "The Bowery" will be intense because of the emphasis placed on the part of the Bowery girls played in the life of the romantic old thoroughbred, Fay Wray and Pert Kelton head the large feminine cast.

"Roman Scandals"
Eddie Cantor sings three lively new song hits in his inimitable fashion in "Roman Scandals," the comedian's fourth annual screen musical extravaganza for Samuel Goldwyn, showing simultaneously at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres. The numbers are "Keep Young and Beautiful," "Build a Little Home," and "Tax on Love." The first two were written by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, while on the last Warren collaborated with L. Wolfe Gilbert. "No More Love" the plaintive ballad, crowned by Ruth Etting of radio and Zigfeld Polles fame in the spectacular Slave Market sequence of this United Artists release, was also written by the Dubin and Warren team. Gloria Stuart, David Manners, Edward Arnold and Verree Teasdale are featured with Ruth Etting in support in this adaptation of George S. Kaufman and Robert Sherwood's rollicking story, under the direction of Frank Tuttle. Busby Berkeley created and directed the dance and production numbers.

"Design for Living"
Ernst Lubitsch's brand new Paramount picture, "Design for Living" is now playing at the King's Theatre. It has for its leading players Freddie March, Gary Cooper, Miriam Hopkins and Edward Everett Horton and was brought to the screen by Ben Hecht from Noel Coward's sensational stage success of the same name. Motion pictures have rarely attempted pic-

POPULAR OFFICER.

MR. D. L. KING GOING HOME ON LEAVE

Tribute to the work he has done for the Police Reserve was paid to Mr. D. L. King, the Deputy Superintendent of the Police Reserve, who is going Home on leave, at a tea party given in his honour by the Indian Company of the Police Reserve at Lane, Crawford's yesterday afternoon.

The Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, the Inspector General of Police, conferred to the excellent work which Mr. King had done for the Police Reserve, and also made an appeal for more men in Government Service to join.

The opportunity was also taken to introduce Mr. Cyril Champkin, who will be acting Deputy Superintendent of the Police Reserve in Mr. King's absence.

Among those present were the Hon. Mr. Wolfe, Inspector General of Police, the Hon. Dr. S. W. Teo, Mr. T. H. King, Deputy Inspector General of Police, Mr. T. O. Teo, Assistant Superintendent of Police Reserve, Mr. T. Hynes, Mr. S. Randle, Mr. T. Murphy, Director of Criminal Intelligence, Mr. Calhoun, A.S.I., Mr. Badan Singh, Mr. Peres Ali, Sub-Inspector R. J. Hunt, Sub-Inspector Hopkins and several others.

Mr. King, speaking in reply to Mr. Peres Ali, Officer commanding the Indian Company, congratulated their late commanding officer, Mr. Sirdar Khan, on whom His Excellency the Viceroy of India had recently conferred an honour. He also congratulated Mr. Peres Ali for his admirable work for the Company, and urged more concentration and improvement in their drill, on which the general discipline and esprit de corps of the Company depended.

Mr. King was presented with a handsome silver backed brush and comb as a memento of the occasion.

tures dealing "with the subject of "Design for Living". Paramount, struck with the amusing entertainment possibilities of the stage play, bought it for a Lubitsch picture and placed a most important cast in the film. On a Paris-bound train, Miriam Hopkins, vivacious young artist, first meets the two men who are to change her life. They are George Carls, also an artist and Tom Chambers, playwright, played by Cooper and March respectively. Tom and George both fall madly in love with her. To further complicate matters, Miss Hopkins falls in love too. Only she is too fond of Tom to tell him she loves George, and she loves George too much to hurt to tell him about Tom. After lengthy discussions, the problem is solved. She is to live with them, but she will be a mother of the arts. Sex in art, on canvas. So with this goal for their happiness, the three of them settle down together in their triangular love-nest. But happiness isn't won so easily, and the manner in which they eventually do get together brings the picture to a most amusing ending.

Don't Wait Until You Are Crippled By Rheumatism!

Perhaps you are numbered amongst those who know the misery of rheumatism. It may be just a recurrent attack at intervals, or you may never wholly be rid of it, which over it is, unless it is eradicated it will lead to greater ill, for constant pain will eventually bring on anaemia, and this in turn produces neuralgia, dyspepsia, and other troubles resulting from an impoverished condition of the blood.

Countless sufferers from rheumatism have found relief by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When the nerves are weakened and the digestion impaired, acidity is set up in the stomach and this is the source of rheumatic poisons which find their way into the blood and cause rheumatism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unique in their ability to create new, rich, red blood which is the first essential in the treatment of rheumatism, for there can be no hope of a permanent cure if the blood is thin, weak and watery.

By their tonic action on the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been proved by medical test to increase the quality and quantity of the blood, they are of great benefit to rheumatic sufferers. A trial will convince you. Their general strengthening effect makes them equally good for nervous complaints, digestive troubles and for the special ailments of women. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

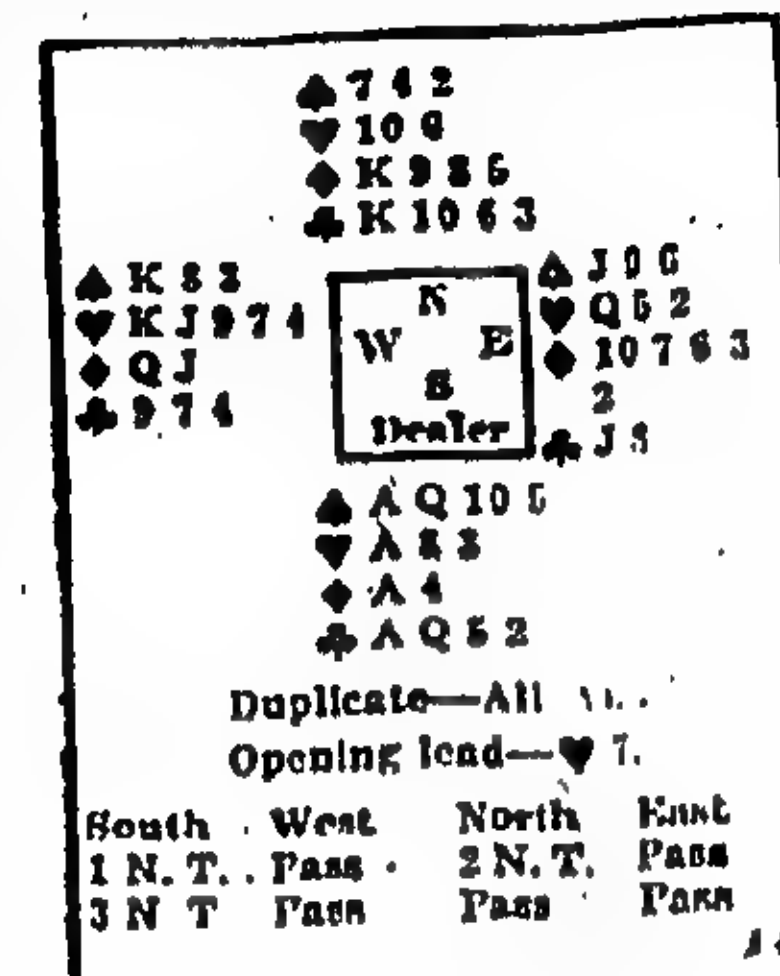

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

The most undesirable partner at contract is not the one who will miss bidding a game or a slam occasionally, but the one who, by careless play, will jeopardize the contract. I was surprised at the number of players, in a recent duplicate game, who failed to make three no trump on today's hand.

North, with his two kings, is justified in taking the original bid of one no trump to two.

The Play
West's opening lead was the seven of hearts. The ace was played from dummy and East played the queen. Declarer refused to win this trick and held up until the third round, winning then with the ace, and discarding a small spade from dummy.

The ace of diamonds was played and West played the jack. The declarer now led a small diamond. When West played the queen, it was won in dummy with the king.

The careless player might make the mistake of finessing the spade at this point, but that would be jeopardizing the contract, as West is marked with two good hearts, and the opposition already has cashed two heart tricks.

The declarer has four club tricks if the club suit breaks, a heart, a spade, and two diamonds—eight in all. Why not simply establish the eight of diamonds and not bother with the spade finesse?

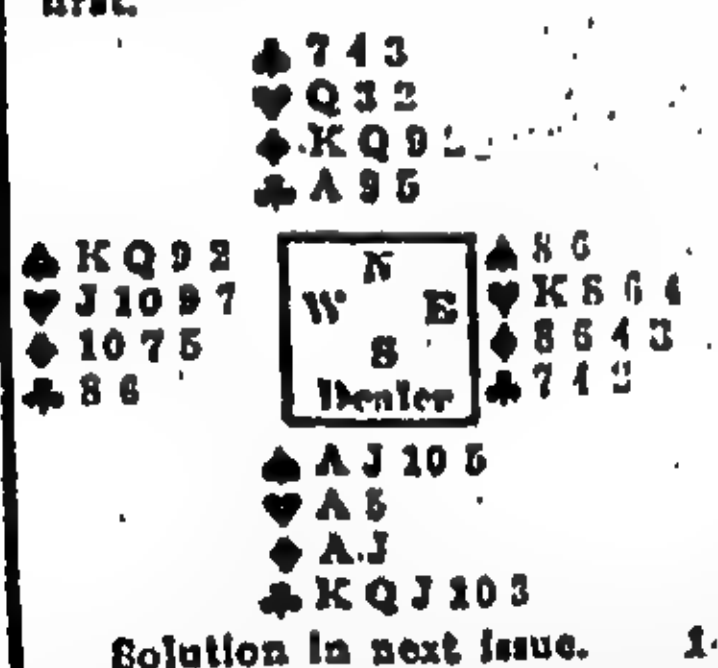

Declarer next should play the nine of diamonds and, when East wins with the ten, a spade should be discarded.

Now, of course, East will return a spade, but the finesse should be refused. The declarer should go right up with the ace, cash the nine of clubs, and then lead a small club to dummy's king.

The eight of diamonds is cashed and the contract is made—all South has to lose now is a spade.

Today's Contract Problem

South is declarer at six clubs. West opens the jack of hearts. Here is a hand that should keep you occupied for a while, but don't be discouraged if you fail to get it at first.

LOCAL CHARITY.

H.K. WOMEN'S GUILD AND M.C.L. DO FINE WORK

The annual report of the Hongkong Women's Guild and the Ministering Children's League, which has just been issued, contains a comprehensive survey of the activities of these two bodies during the year 1933.

Some idea of the charitable work that is being done can be gauged by the fact that during the year no less than $9,683 has been allocated to charities by these bodies.

The report says, in part: "It was a matter of great regret that the Children's Club started by the Victoria Branch in 1932 was allowed to lapse as the Committee was unable to find a Secretary and helpers. It is earnestly hoped that 1934 will see it successfully re-started also that the Kowloon children will form a club. These clubs meet once a week in the Summer holidays and are very much enjoyed."

"Lady Dwyer and Mrs. O. C. Borrett very graciously consented to become our first two Honorary Vice-Presidents."

Our financial year ended on March 31, 1934. The money available for allocation was $11,083. The sum of $1,600 was voted for the Cheero Club in 1932 and held over since then has been paid into the funds of the New Club.

The Annual Commitments of the Guild and League are as follows: £60 for 2 endowed "Hongkong" Cots (£30 for each Cot) in the M.C.L. Homes at Ottersham in England, $1,000 for an endowed Cot in the Children's ward of the Netherlands Hospital. An additional $15 was sent again this year to Ottersham and the balance of the funds raised has been divided between local charities.

JAPANESE NAVAL ATTACHE DEAD

Found Hanged in Hotel Bedroom

Naples, Apr. 17.
Commander Sinsuke Ohtani, the Japanese Naval Attache in Rome, was found dead in his room at a local hotel last night. It appears to be a case of suicide. He was found hanged.—Reuter.

HANGED BY TOWEL

NAPLES HOTEL TRAGEDY

JAPANESE NAVAL ATTACHE'S END

Naples, Apr. 17.
The suicide of Commander Ohtani, the Japanese naval attache, has caused a shock in Japanese diplomatic circles.

Investigation at the hotel seems to suggest that he came to Naples with the intention of taking his life. He arrived at the hotel during the afternoon and asked for a room with a bath attached. He looked tired and was carrying very little luggage, but as he was a regular client of the hotel this caused no comment.

At eight o'clock in the evening, a servant knocked at the door and entered the room on receiving no reply, to find Commander Ohtani lying dead in the bath, hanged with a towel from the shower.

It is estimated that he had been dead some two hours before he was found.

No letters or documents throwing any light on the affair were found. Servants at his home in Rome expected him back to-morrow. The Counselor of the Legation, Mr. Iwata, has gone to Naples.—Reuter.

R.A.F. Flyingboats Meet Strong Headwinds

It is probable that the three powerful Supermarine Southampton flyingboats, which were due to arrive in Hongkong at two o'clock this afternoon, will arrive at a later hour.

Owing to strong winds, the machines, which started out early this morning, have returned to the north of the Philippine Islands, according to latest information.

They will probably refuel and if weather conditions are more favourable, will start out again in time to arrive here at 4 p.m.

The machines, under the command of Group Captain S. W. Smith, O. B. E., Officer Commanding the R. A. F. in the Far East, are on a coastal tour, having taken off from Singapore on April 2.

ATTEMPTS TO WIN ARMY'S LOYALTY

INTENSE CAMPAIGN DETAILED

SIR T. INSKIP'S NEW BILL

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 17, 9.04 a.m.)

London, Apr. 17.
Attempts by the Black Shirts to win the Army to the support of Fascism are chiefly challenged by a new Bill now before Parliament, though it will naturally also operate against Communist propaganda.

Illustrations of how subversive propaganda has been conducted among the troops was given by the Attorney-General (Sir Thomas Inskip, K.C.) when moving in the House of Commons, the second reading of the Government's Bill, which is designed to prevent and punish attempts to seduce His Majesty's Forces.

The Bill provides, among other things, that the mere possession of seditious documents shall constitute an offence.

The Attorney-General explained that there is nothing novel in the Bill. The law at the present time, however, tended to drive the chief offenders underground.

TOO COWARDLY.

They were, he said, too cowardly to put their names to their literature.

Outlining some of the methods employed by agents in the distribution of political propaganda aiming at alienating the loyalty of His Majesty's Forces, Sir Thomas Inskip said that distribution was carried out by such means as strawing parade-grounds with pamphlets, posting them on walls in dance-halls and cabarets.

PUT INTO POCKETS.

Soldiers had even found leaflets put into their hands or their pockets.

He gave an instance of the type of propaganda employed, which he described as an insult to the members of the Forces.

Rejection of the Bill was moved by the Labour M.P., Mr. J. Lawson, who described it as a tremendous and dangerous experiment.—Reuter's Special Service.

SIKORSKY DISASTER EVIDENCE

REVIVED SEARCH FOR PLANE

AMPHIBIAN SETS OUT

Shanghai, Apr. 17.
A Leoning amphibian plane is proceeding this afternoon to the spot where the lost Canton-bound air-liner is believed to have foundered.

Officials in the craft will try to organise a junk search for the machine and the occupants.

In the meantime, a tug and lighters are leaving for Changhai in order to bring back the other Sikorsky which was damaged when searching for the missing plane.—Reuter.

REPORT OF SAFETY DENIED

Evidence of Disaster Picked Up

Shanghai, Apr. 17, 11.20 a.m.
First tangible evidence that the lost air-liner met with disaster reached Shanghai this morning by steamer from Changhai, Chekiang. It consisted of a Chinese Post Office mail-bag, a cloth bag, two books, forms addressed to the Foochow agents of the C.N.A.C., and an envelope containing baby's comforters.

All were sodden but in a good state of preservation.

FOUND BY FISHERMEN.

Fishermen are reported to have found these articles on April 11 between Kiangtanshan Island and the Chokiang coast and took them to Changhai where a Chinese mechanic shipped them to Shanghai. It is understood that dredging operations will be conducted, but it will be difficult as the depth there is thirty fathoms.

Officials of the C.N.A.C. emphatically deny the report that the plane itself or the occupants have been found.—Reuter.

Washington, April 16.

REVOLUTION IN JUSTICE

DISBANDMENT OF OGPU IMMINENT

BITTER STRUGGLE BEHIND SCENES

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 17, 9.04 a.m.)

MOSCOW, APRIL 17.
BEHIND A LACONIC ANNOUNCEMENT IN "PRAVDA" RECENTLY STATING THAT THE DREADED SECRET POLICE ORGANISATION, THE O.G.P.U. (STATE POLITICAL DEPARTMENT) WILL SOON BE ABOLISHED LURKS A DRAMATIC STORY, AUTHENTIC DETAILS OF WHICH HAVE JUST BEEN REVEALED TO THE UNITED PRESS.

A new Commissariat for the Interior is to be established and a great struggle has been going on between highly-placed officials concerning the first holder of the new post.

Settlement of this dispute will be followed by a revolutionary change in the entire system of the Soviet administration of justice and the approach of that system to the methods of democratic countries of the Western world. That revolution is imminent; is, indeed, already being enacted.

HEADQUARTERS BECOME FLATS

An outstanding feature of the new system to be introduced lies in the fact that the Government will be deprived of executive power to order sentence of death, to order the imprisonment of alleged political offenders or to impose heavy exile penalties.

According to a highly significant measure likely soon to become effective, all accused persons will be tried publicly in open civil courts, instead of being liable to the mercy of the OGPU's "secret chamber" or to execution on summary order without trial.

THOUSANDS TO BE FREED.

In connection with the decision to abolish the dreaded O.G.P.U., thousands of prisoners now undergoing sentence and also many whose cases are now undergoing investigation are almost certain to be released.

These will include prominent members of the former Menshevik Social Revolutionary parties.

DISPUTE CAUSES DELAY.

The decision to disband the OGPU, it is learned, was taken by prominent Soviet leaders several months ago, but the decision has never been carried into effect owing to the development of a bitter struggle behind the scenes regarding the individual to be appointed to the new Ministry, the Commissariat of the Interior.

It is reliably learned that General Voroshiloff, the Commissar of War, wants M. Ivan Akuloff, now the Soviet Union's Attorney-General and Chief Prosecutor, to be placed in charge of the new Commissariat.

CORKY NOMINEE.

M. Maxim Gorky, who enjoys tremendous political influence in Russia, thanks to his very close friendship with M. Joseph Stalin (the virtual Dictator of Russia), is, on the other hand, backing the appointment of M. Henry Yagoda, who is at present the active chief of the O.G.P.U.

Whatever is the outcome of the Yagoda-Akuloff struggle, however, the OGPU's days as the unchallenged secret political organisation is on the verge of being ended.

HEADQUARTERS TRANSFORMED.

The rooms of the OGPU's head-

.....Maxim Gorky, who urges that the present chief of the O.G.P.U. should be the new Commissar for the Interior.

SHARP RISE IN BRITISH TRADE

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

RAW MATERIAL IMPORTS

London, April 16.
A further increase in overseas trade is disclosed in the Board of Trade returns for March.

Imports last month were of the value of £61,999,627, as compared with £57,353,979 in February and £56,351,612 in March of last year.

Exports last month represented £33,068,530 worth of United Kingdom manufactured goods, coal and other raw materials and £5,631,427 of re-exported merchandise, mainly raw materials dealt with by merchant firms. Excluding re-exports, the comparative export figures for the previous month and for March, 1933, were £30,000,451 and £32,550,721. It is noteworthy that owing to the Easter holidays, there were two fewer working days last month than in March, 1933.

MORE EMPLOYMENT.

The value of re-exports in March last year was £3,883,020. Of the increase over March, 1933, of £5,618,015 in imports, over four million pounds is represented by increased imports of raw materials, and indicates additional employment in staple industries.

In every classification of imports of raw materials and articles mainly unmanufactured, there was an increase last month over March, 1933. For the first three months of the current year, imports are valued at £25,690,789 more than in the corresponding period of last year, but they are £3,620,612 less than in the first three months of 1932.

MAIN EXPORTS.

Exports compared for the same periods show increases respectively of £5,011,995 and £2,387,333.

The increases in exports fall mainly under the headings of iron and steel, non-ferrous metals, woollen manufactures, chemicals and motor cars.—British Wireless.

On a charge of avoiding paying his fare on a China Motor Bus Company vehicle, salesman, Fung Ho-chi, 32 failed to appear before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, and his bail of $25 was forfeited. Inspector James stated it was a very obvious case of attempting to defraud the Company.

SILVER PROBLEM

Peking, Apr. 17.
It is learned from the American Legation that Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, American Minister to China, will proceed to Hankow early next week whence he will proceed to Shanghai to meet Professor Rogers, who is expected to visit the silver issue.—Central News.

RE-ARMAMENT SCHEME DENIED

HEAVIER COSTS EXPLAINED

London, Apr. 16.
Germany's explanation of the heavy increases in her provisions for military purposes is that no rearmament is involved, the extra expenditure being for long-needed replacements.

AIR VICE-MARSHAL SCARLETT

DEATH OF NOTED OFFICER

London, April 16.
The death has occurred of Air Vice-Marshal F. R. Scarlett, C.B., D.S.O., who retired in 1932 at his own request after more than 42 years' service, 19 of which were connected with flying. In May, 1913, as Commander, R.N., he joined the cruiser Hermes when she was commissioned for duty with the naval wing of the R.F.C. Subsequently he was appointed Inspecting Captain of Aircraft. During the War he served with the R.N.A.S. in the Mediterranean, and was decorated for his work at the Dardanelles and elsewhere.

On the formation of the R.A.F. he became temporary brigadier-general, and was for a time Director of the Air Division at the Admiralty. After receiving a permanent R.A.F. commission in 1919, he held commands at Halton and Uxbridge, and in 1923 he was Air Officer Commanding the R.A.F. in the Middle East, with headquarters at Cairo.—Reuter.

EARL OF BUCHAN DEAD

14TH HOLDER OF THE TITLE

London, April 16.
The death has occurred of Shipley Gordon Stuart Erskine, the Earl of Buchan, at the age of 84 years. He was the 14th holder of the title, and succeeded his father in 1899.

The new Earl is Lord Cardross, a former Lieutenant in the Scots Guards, who saw much service in South Africa and in the Great War, and who was formerly a landowner in British East Africa.—Reuter.

FRENCH ADMIRAL'S SUDDEN DEATH

Shanghai, Apr. 17.
The death occurred suddenly to-day aboard the French cruiser Primaugot of Admiral Descoffres Genon, who was on his way from Hongkong to Shanghai to take up the command of the French naval forces in the Far East. Admiral Genon died of bronchial pneumonia at six o'clock this morning. The Primaugot is expected to arrive here late this afternoon.—Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

"FATTENING" FOODS ARE SLIMMING!

By a Dietetic Expert

Fat bacon, the fatter the better; fried pork or veal; steak cooked in butter; fried fish of the richer order, such as salmon, turbot, herring; as much cream as you like . . . that, with fruit and vegetables in any quantity, and the minimum amount of exercise, is one of the new ideas for a slimming regime.

Crazy . . . ? Well, not so crazy, for it is a diet that is prescribed by a leading doctor for stout patients who wish to get their weight back to normal.

How does it work? Summing it up, you will see that there is very little sugar in this diet. It is intended to slim by destroying poisonous matter and germs in the system. The fruit and vegetables (the latter served with butter), which are an important part of this diet, are taken as separate courses. This is a vital point in any slimming regime.

The habit, especially among English people of eating meat and vegetables together is wrong, dietetically speaking. Just as wrong as that popular partnership fruit and cream. Potatoes need not be given up altogether. Served plainly and eaten alone, they will do less harm than a roll and butter taken as an adjunct to a heavy meal.

Grilled or even fried foods, so long as the fat or oil in which these are cooked is of the finest quality and is thoroughly drained off before serving, can vary the diet of the not-so-slim without danger of flesh-forming. A rice dish, such as the one described in this page on Wednesday, or even macaroni, can be taken, but should form a meal in itself.

A well and truly cooked milk pudding, owing to the fact that it changes its form from starch to dextrin in the cooking, makes another excellent, easily digested meal. I stress the word meal, for milk puddings should not be taken after a heavy meat course.

Sugar in reasonable quantities is a necessity, and can be taken in many ways. Your dentist will tell you that it is not so harmful to the teeth as a diet that contains a disproportionate amount of starch.

In whatever form it comes to the table, milk being a food in itself, is better taken alone. When you boast of "eating nothing for breakfast" and you have, regularly every morning, toast and marmalade washed down with large cups of milky coffee, remember this fact.

Coffee After Meals

Many women on a slimming diet abuse the drinking of coffee. It is as bad a form of abuse as any other, but it is as well to bear in mind the fact that coffee-drinking nations are inclined to sallowness and to put on weight. A small cup of black coffee after the main meal of the day is the time and place to which coffee unerringly belongs. In its right place and in right quantities, coffee can do no harm. Taboo are such dishes as fricassees or snails and casserole concoctions, with their rich garnishments.

Although widely advocated, it has been proved that such popular features of a slimming diet as orange juice and spinach are not for everyone.

The cult of the salad is another feature that can be taken too far. Raw green food should never be eaten when you are tired, or if your meal is late at night, and it is important, at all times that it should be well masticated.

The most valuable part of the lettuce is the outer leaves. Instead of throwing the leaves away, wash them well, tear in small pieces and put in the salad. They have just as good a flavour as the heart—even better.

Aesthetically, the tomato looks at its best decorating a deep bowl full of crisp, green lettuce. Gastronomically, it is best eaten alone, first having been stripped of its shining red coat. Onions, while a healthy food both in a raw and cooked state, should be taken in moderation.

As Gladstone Said.

Of diets and slimming theories there are no end. But on one point all experts, I think, agree. And that is on the importance of thorough mastication.

Ninety-nine people out of a hundred eat too fast, and as digestive troubles are responsible for a large preponderance of unwanted flesh among the human race, the moral is: Whatever you eat . . . EAT SLOWLY.

Rather smart, don't you think? And it's made up so easily in handkerchief linen or cotton print. The designs are in six sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 (with corresponding bust measure of 32, 34, 36 and 38) and also in 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 3-5-8 yards of 39 inch material plus 1-3 yard contrast for the bow and neckband cut crosswise or bias.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Points on Purchasing Shoes

By Alicia Hart

When you start out to buy new spring shoes, put yourself in the hands of a man who knows how to fit feet.

It is estimated that a very great percentage of all foot ailments is caused by poor fitting shoes. If your shoes are too short, corns are likely to form on the tips of your toes. If shoes are too long, they have a tendency to slide up and down on your heels, causing blisters.

Bunions often come as a result of wearing narrow shoes. Arches ache and make you tired if your shoes are not designed for your particular type of foot.

Low heels are best for walking purposes. And the girl who likes to dance in shoes with medium heels will find some of the new spring styles right to her liking.

Stockings should be large enough to give your toes room to move about. At the same time, don't get them so long that they'll wrinkle and irritate your toes and heels.

Never wear the same pair of hose a second day without washing them. It takes very little time to wash your stockings when you remove them at night. The hose will last longer and your feet will be more comfortable the next day.

CHAPTER XXIV

Angela hobbled back to her shack and packed her belongings. There was scarcely more to do than to slip a bottle of gin in the front of her dress. This done, she hobbled forth again. She would go to the swamp for a little while, she decided. She did not wish to encounter the inquisitive strangers again. Picturesquely, she cursed them. If their coming should disturb the monthly remittance from Cuba for caring for Pablito what would become of her?

She wept, whining vituperation and curses as she went. At the edge of the swamp she pulled her sagging skirts high and waded cautiously, a wary eye out for alligators and water moccasins. Again on land, she followed what was called the "Slave's Way" because years before many slaves had followed this route, seeking freedom.

When she stepped into the first clearing she jumped so that a twinge of rheumatism made her wince. Someone else had sought the shelter of the swamp—a man. "Good day, mother," he said easily. He too, looked startled. He hoped she had not noticed this but she had seen it and smiled shyly.

"It is a good day for a picnic," she said slowly.

"Will you share my meal?" he asked. She nodded as she sat down on a hummock not far from him. Then she studied him. Soon when she felt it to be wise—she would return to Key West and tell the authorities that a man was hiding in the swamp in a spot to which she could direct them. She would do this, providing she could benefit by it. The probability of her benefiting she would make sure of before she spoke.

"You seek the solitude?" she asked blandly.

The man stirred, looking anxiously toward the shadow. "I am hunting orchids," he answered.

"Ah!" she thought, with an inward leer. "So you're hunting orchids! Already you look as if the dogs had chased you 100 miles."

He spoke a stiff variety of Spanish and she concluded that he was a northerner who had long been in hiding.

"God grant that you find your orchids!" she murmured, her blood-shot eyes fixed upon him.

She was certain now. The man was hiding from something or someone. And she would have her reward.

Above them the trees grew unusually high for swamp ground, making an impenetrable green-black roof. Now and again a leaf stirred gently but usually quiet prevailed.

"It is a warm day, stranger, and you have hurried," she said with a thick pretence of concern.

"Yes," he admitted.

He took from his pocket then a gray handkerchief that Pablito had once kept white for him. With it he mopped his brow.

Pablito sent a messenger, a

Cuban youth, to the small island but the messenger could find no trace of Noyes. Storms had left sand thick and gritty upon everything within the shack, the Cuban boy testified, and the place looked as though it had been deserted for months.

"Nadie allí!" he repeated with a lift of the shoulders and out-flung hands. "Nadie!" ("Nobody there, nobody!")

"And you went into the swamp?" Pablito asked, this hard muscles strained and tense as he leaned forward over the bare-topped table.

The boy hesitated a moment. Then he spoke. He had gone into the swamp, he reassured his conscience. Not far, to be sure, yet he had gone into the swamp.

"Seguro que si, Señor!" He answered. ("Surely yes!")

Then he wiped his brow although the day was not over-warm, being freshened by a cool breeze that had had its start in a late, northern blizzard. That swamp, the Cuban boy feared, he would never forget. The place had been as black as the inside of the devil's cauldron. Half way toward its darkest gloom he had come across a wicked old woman who had seemed a witch.

She was lying on a path with one leg twisted under her and she had screamed as he had never heard a woman scream.

He had backed away from her, asking haltingly, "Old woman, can I help you? May I send friends to you from Key West?"

Seeing her, he had decided that, sin or not, he could not touch her! And she had answered, shrieking, "No, no! Not from Key West! I have a daughter who will come to me. Go!"

Ah, her troubles! Angela thought through the pain that confused her. Help from Key West would deliver her into the power of the strangers who had inquired about the boy left in her care.

The orchid hunter would help her, she knew. He had the soft eyes which deny an enjoyment of torture.

"Go, stranger and with God!" she repeated between her groans.

So the Cuban boy had gone after one last glance toward the darkness of the shadows and after crossing himself.

Pablito, in the house of Cerro, sank back in his chair, his brow furrowed. He had grown older in a very short time. He was still sure that some day, somehow he would locate Noyes and that again they would dwell in that peace he now thought of as close to Utopia.

He rose to pay the messenger and the boy, reassuring himself of the fact that he had been in the swamp, went on his way.

Little appeared then. "Too bad, honey," she said, laying a hand on Pablito's shoulder. He realized that the only sincere kindness he knew these days came from Lotte. He thought, "Some time, in some way, I must repay her."

And this seed, sprung from his sense of fairness, grew into a heavy sense of duty but his gratitude was to lie dormant longer than he could guess.

Norma Field and Estelle had settled in Tucson, Ariz. Norma, knowing that she could not live long, clutched the hours with Estelle jealously. Meanwhile she made a brave pretence of feeling better.

Estelle sat by her mother's bed constantly, watching with tragic young eyes and smiling stiffly.

"Darling, you should go out more; you should get more exercise."

"But I'd rather be here."

"I'm afraid it must be stupid for you, dear, penned up with me."

"I want to be here, mother."

Estelle thought a great deal during those days. She thought of the past and of what was ahead. She had begun to understand her father through his attitude about Pablito. He had been ruthless in refusing to listen to her defence of the boy.

He would be kind, she realized, so long as he had his way and wholly cruel if antagonized. She feared the years when she must be alone with him.

"Are you comfortable, mother?"

"Quite, dear heart—"

But her mother spoke slowly now with long gaps between her words and always there was the flush of fever on her sunken cheeks and the brightness of it in her eyes.

Norma Field died in October. The day was Estelle's sixteenth birthday, a day when the mountains were tinged with pink and gold and purple and the air was sparkling.

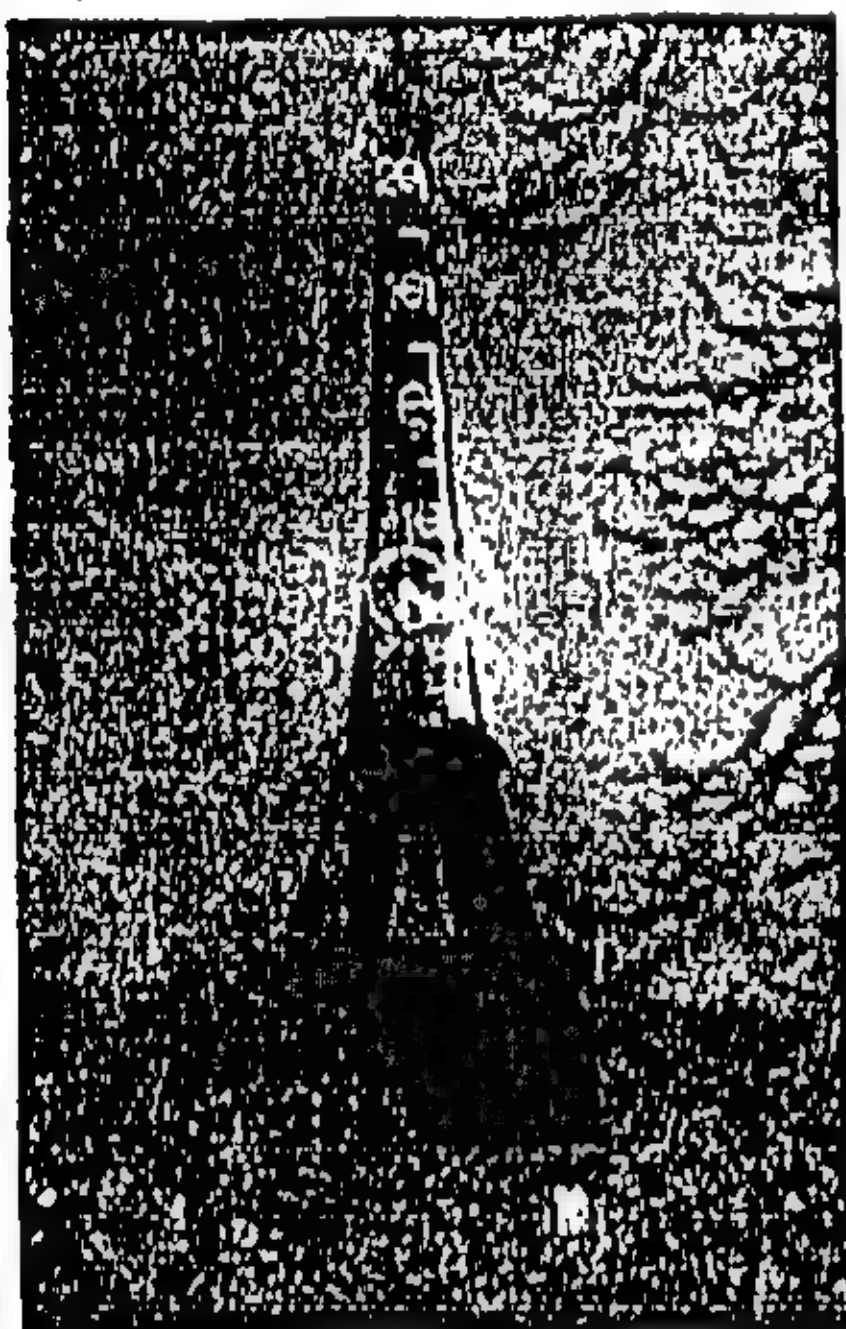

She had never seemed better. Estelle had laughed with her that morning over some trivial happening that had amused them both. Then Mrs. Field had said she wanted to rest and Estelle had gone to the garden to look at the mountains, the changes of which never failed to entrance her.

She returned at luncheon time to meet the day nurse. "Dear, don't come in now!" the nurse ordered sharply. Estelle grew faint but the nurse did not stop to help her. She hurried back to her patient.

"Big" Field came soon. Estelle had not cried and did not cry until she saw her father. Then she clung to him, weeping hysterically. She felt his heart rise. She would be his now—all his.

"Never mind, darling. You have your daddy," he said soothingly, patting the girl's shoulder. He felt her clinging to him more tightly.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET EASY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done 1,200,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—

Stocks broke sharply due to the crash in Chicago grain which descended to new lows for the season in the worst bull rout of the year due to a big increase of liquidation of May contracts prior to the first notice day and increased pressure due to the President's attitude against silver. It is reported that a big Chicago grain operator was caught in a heavy long position and was forced to liquidate. Stocks started declining early due to a break in silver caused by the administration's opposition to silver legislation this session which means there won't be any inflationary legislation for the present. Curb issues followed stocks. Bonds eased on heavy profit taking due to the break in stocks but declines were comparatively small, some bonds advancing against the trend.

One New York office cable:—

Stocks: Slumped on the commodity break but showed good resistance and a fair recovery. Wheat: Liquidation broke prices on Washington advice which indicates the stopping of inflationary legislation. Buyers lack confidence. Favour buying on further decline. Cotton: Heavy general liquidation on the weakness of grain and silver was induced by less favourable prospects of silver legislation and inflation generally this session of Congress. Strike threats continue to be a factor. Trade was buying on a scale down and there was some evidence of outside interest at the decline.

WINSTON CHURCHILL MAKES SENSATIONAL CHARGE

WATSON'S PAY A DIVIDEND

Considerably Improved Results

LOSS ON CANTON BRANCH

An increased balance of $90,000 on the working account over last year and an increased net profit of $37,055.90 were reported at the annual general meeting of Messrs A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd., held in the Jacobean Room at the Hongkong Hotel this morning.

Mr. D. E. Clark was in the chair, and there were also present the Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, Kt., Mr. J. Scott Harston and Mr. A. B. Stewart (directors), Messrs. J. A. Tarrant, J. M. Wong, P. C. Potts, W. S. Bailey, J. L. Quile, J. E. Jung, Peter Wong, J. F. Grose, Lo Chung-wan, F. S. Stapleton, H. Sommer, Wong Kin-tai and N.V.A. Croucher (shareholders).

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

Proving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts, Mr. Clark said:—Gentlemen, The report and statement of accounts having been in your hands for the prescribed period, I propose with your approval, to take them as read.

The results for the year shows a considerable improvement on the previous year. The balance of working account being over $90,000 better, with an increased net profit of $37,055.90. Under the circumstances the Board feel justified in recommending a small dividend, and trust this, and the proposed allocation to Reserves, etc., will meet with your approval.

We regret that our Canton Branch again made a loss on the year's working. The Aerated Water business there took some time to recover from the effects of the cholera epidemic of the previous year; and although sales were fairly satisfactory, the high duties imposed on raw materials, and the adverse exchange rate as between Canton and Hongkong, were factors which have contributed to the unsatisfactory results. Prices were increased during the year under review, and given favourable conditions, we hope to show better results this year.

In times such as we are experiencing, it is very necessary to pay extra attention to expenditure in all directions; and I can assure shareholders that special care is being taken, and will continue to be exercised, to ensure that costs are reduced to a minimum, and every possible economy effected.

Turning to the balance sheet, I think there is very little that calls for special mention. Particulars of Land and Buildings, which have previously been shown in detail, do not now appear. Our auditors consider it unnecessary.

AERATED WATER PLANT.

Aerated Water Machinery and Plant, shows a considerable increase, due to the installation in Canton of a complete water distilling plant. The installation of this plant was completed late in June last year and after some minor trouble to commence work, it is now working satisfactorily. Our factories in Hongkong and Canton are now equipped with the most modern plant and machinery. Unless due to unforeseen circumstances further expenditure of any importance should not be necessary for some years.

Stocks and Sundry Stores taken together are down $18,000 odd. In previous balance sheets these have been shown separately. On the suggestion of our auditors they now appear in one item.

I have no further remarks to make, Gentlemen, and I now beg to propose that the report and statement of accounts as presented be adopted and that the allocation of profits as recommended be passed, namely—To pay a Dividend of 30 cents per share which will absorb $45,000.00; place to Reserve Fund $25,000.00; write off Building Improvements $7,000.00; transfer to Chinese Staff Superannuation Fund $5,000.00; and carry forward to next account $92,647.23 total, $176,207.38.

After this has been seconded I shall be pleased to answer questions in connection with the accounts to the best of my ability.

Mr. Bailey: I am glad to note the improvement on the current report over that of the previous year and that every possible economy is being effected to still further improve the Company's position and bring us a return of the good dividends which have been paid by this Company in the past. I think the Company is to be congratulated under the direction of $1,250 each.

Sir Samuel Hoare, who declares that Mr. Churchill has discovered another mare's nest.

A farewell parade to Lieut. Col. G. T. Raikes, D.S.O., O.C. the 1st Bn. the South Wales Borderers, who is leaving for England on Saturday to take up an appointment as Instructor at the Senior Officers' School at Sheerness, took place on the Murray Parade Ground this morning.

The Battalion turned out at strength with the life and drum band. There were on parade Major R.G. Lochner, M.C., Major P. Gottwalt, M.C., Capt. A.R. Smethers, Capt. V.J.F. Popham, Capt. N.A.G. Tucker, Capt. H.M. Jordan, Capt. C.P.G. de Winton and several subalterns.

Brevet Lieut. Col. A.E. Williams, D.S.O., M.C., is to succeed Lieut. Col. Raikes as O.C. the South Wales Borderers and will leave England to take over the appointment on May 12.

THE NEW O. C.

Lieut. Col. Williams is 46 years of age and the son of the late Lieut. Col. D. E. Williams, V.D., J.P. of Pen-y-Bryn, Shirley Drive, Hove. He was educated at Monmouth Grammar School, and Sandhurst and joined the South Wales Borderers as a 2nd Lieut. in 1907, and was appointed Lieutenant two years later. Soon after the outbreak of the Great War he became Captain. For seven months in 1915 he was Adjutant and in 1918 received the brevet of Major, the rank being substantiated in 1925. Four years ago he received the brevet of Lieut. Colonel.

He saw service during the Great War, being G. S. O. 3 to the 29th Division and later having command of the 1st Battalion of the South Wales Borderers. From January 1920 until July 1918 he was Brigade Major with the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force in Gallipoli and Egypt, and during the following year was G. S. O. (France) with the rank of temporary Major. He then joined the Rhine Army as Brigadier Major and in 1924 was appointed Assistant Military Secretary in India. Two years later he received the appointment of G. S. O. 2 India and from February 1929 until March 1931 held a similar appointment with the Scottish Command.

Decorated in despatches on five occasions during the Great War and awarded the French War Cross, the D.S.O., and the D.S.O. in 1918. Other medals he holds are the 1914-15 Star, the British War Medal and the Victory Medal.

circumstances in having so well dealt with the conditions that have been quite beyond our control. I have no doubt that next year will see still further improvement in the Company's position. I have now much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the report and statement of accounts.

The motion was adopted. Mr. J. Scott Harston, the Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, Kt., and Mr. A. B. Stewart were re-elected to the Board of Directors on the motion of the chairman seconded by Mr. P. C. Potts.

BREACH OF HOUSE PRIVILEGES

SIR SAMUEL HOARE AND LANCASHIRE

MINISTER RETORTS "MARE'S-NEST"

London, April 16.

MR. WINSTON CHURCHILL FURNISHED A SENSATION in the House of Commons this evening when he asked leave "to refer a matter of grave importance to the Committee of Privileges."

Mr. Churchill proceeded to make accusations against the Secretary of State for India, (Sir Samuel Hoare) and others, including Lord Derby, alleging grossly irregular conduct in bringing pressure to bear on witnesses giving evidence before the Select Committee on Indian Constitutional Reform.

The charges were warmly denied by Sir Samuel Hoare, who explained exactly what happened.

Mr. Winston Churchill asserted that when Sir Samuel Hoare, in 1933, learned what evidence the Manchester Chamber of Commerce proposed to submit to the Indian Select Committee, he with others, notably Lord Derby (former Minister of War), exerted pressure on the Chamber, with the result that the proposed evidence was fundamentally altered.

Mr. Churchill said that he did not doubt that the action of Sir Samuel Hoare and Lord Derby was well-intentioned.

"GROSSLY IRREGULAR."

In bringing the matter to the attention of the House, he had no thought of impugning their personal motives, but he felt it to be grossly irregular for members of the Commission to press witnesses to alter their evidence.

The House agreed to Mr. Winston Churchill's motion, after a chorus of approval by the leaders of all sections of the House, including Sir Samuel Hoare.

The Secretary of State for India said he would welcome the enquiry. It would provide a chance once again to prove that Mr. Churchill had found a mare's nest.

SIR SAMUEL EXPLAINS.

In the course of his reply to Mr. Churchill, Sir Samuel added that the Manchester Chamber of Commerce's original memorandum seemed to him to destroy any chance of negotiations between India and Manchester (which eventually had a happy issue) even occurring.

He felt bound to bring this to the notice of the Manchester Chamber.

EFFORTS UNSUCCESSFUL.

His efforts, however, were unsuccessful. The Chamber did nothing as a result of the representations he made.

It was not until four months later that representations along the same lines were made by the Lancashire delegation that went to India. It was this that induced the Manchester Chamber to amend their memorandum.

ANOTHER VERSION.

London, April 16. With the Government's full concurrence, the House of Commons accepted a motion moved by Mr. Winston Churchill that certain matters which he claimed constituted a breach of the privileges of the House be referred for investigation to the Committee of Privileges.

Mr. Churchill contended that a series of negotiations with the Indian Section of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce amounted to pressure being brought to bear upon them to procure a fundamental alteration in the evidence already submitted to the Joint Select Committee on Indian Constitutional Reform.

Mr. Churchill asserted that pressure was exerted by the Government and came primarily from the Secretary for India, Sir Samuel Hoare, but added also from the fact that Lord Derby, who was a leading member of the Joint Select Committee, interviewed members of the Chamber of Commerce and counselled them to alter their evidence. Eventually the evidence was withdrawn and an entirely different document presented.

The Speaker ruled that Mr. Churchill had made out a prima facie case.

Sir Samuel Hoare welcomed an impartial investigation. He thought the Committee would find that the alteration in the memorandum was due to representations of the Lancashire delegation at that time in India. Enquiry, he said, would prove that Mr. Churchill had found another mare's nest.

Opposition leaders supported the resolution and the Prime Minister expressed the Government's full concurrence.—British Wireless.

A SUNDAY BRIDE.

MISS ESTHER CARVALHO WED TO MR. CARLOS DA SILVA

Silver satin was chosen for her wedding gown by Miss Esther Maria de Sousa Carvalho, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Beltrao de Lucas Carvalho, when she married Mr. Carlos Maria da Silva, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armando Maria da Silva, last Sunday afternoon at the Rosary Church, Kowloon. The Rev. Fr. L. Rossi officiated.

The bride's silver satin gown was finished with a long train trimmed with a single spray of orange blossoms. Her long veil, set in place in the latest cap-like fashion, was also trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of arm lilies and maiden hair fern.

Four bridesmaids were in attendance. They were the Misses Emilia Carvalho, Carolina Silva, Carmen Silva and Cissy da Silva. Their frocks were of blue organdie and were set off with hats, gauntlets and muffs to match.

The bride's brother, Mr. Alvaro Botelho, gave her away, while Messrs. A. J. Reed and F. X. Soares performed the duties of best men.

After the ceremony, a large number of friends attended the reception held at No. 8, Jordan Road, which is the bride and bridegroom's new home.

A gown of blue French crepe and light coat, with hat, shoes and bag to match, was worn by the bride on leaving the reception. The honeymoon is to be spent in Japan.

TRAGIC FINALE

FORTUNE VANISHED IN CRASH OF 1910

Paris, Apr. 16. Henri Rochette, who committed suicide by cutting his throat outside the Law Courts on Saturday, is described as the "Stavisky of 1910."

A millionaire banker at the head of 20 big companies and the owner of luxury palaces on the Riviera, he amassed a fortune of $8,000,000 before the crash came in 1910. Then he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

So widespread was the belief in his innocence, however, that crowds demonstrated against the sentence, and the Chamber was inundated with letters of protest. Recently sentenced to two years' imprisonment for publishing a share-pushing financial paper, he appealed, but the Court of Appeal added a year to his sentence. Upon learning the verdict, Rochette pulled out a razor and cut his throat.—Reuter Special.

GERMAN REPLY

BRITAIN'S QUERY ON ARMAMENTS

London, Apr. 16.

Sir John Simon announced in the House of Commons to-day that the German Government had replied to the British inquiry concerning increased armaments expenditure, as indicated in the recently announced Berlin budget.

The German Government had supplied the information in the form of a note, said the Foreign Secretary, the relevant portion of which would be published.

Asked if the note showed that German re-armament was proceeding to a considerable extent, Sir John replied that "it would in the interests of us all if we examined the note before I answer that question."—Reuter.

Commons by the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, in reply to a question.

The Note states that, in regard to the estimates for the army, 654.6 million Reichsmarks, which represents an increase of 172 millions, the "increased expenditure is necessary for the preparations due to take place in course of the budget year for the conversion of the Reichswehr into a short service army."

The allocation of these sums in the budget for this purpose arises from the state of the negotiations in regard to the disarmament question.

NAVY OBSOLESCENCE.

Expenditure for the naval budget has been estimated at 236 million Reichsmarks. This increased expenditure of 50 millions is due to the increasing cost of the systematic renovation of long since obsolete units of the German fleet, the replacement of which, partly on the ground of the security of the crews, can no longer be postponed.

The Budget of the Air Ministry cannot be regarded as an armament budget, it consists of a budget for air transport and a budget for air protection. It is estimated that the expenses for air transport will amount to 160 million Reichsmarks against the previous year's 77 millions.

AIR SUBSIDY.

This increase is due to the replacement of the obsolete aeroplane material of the private German air transport company, Lufthansa, which, as in other countries, receives Government subsidies; to expenses necessary for increased security in air, and for the installation of lighting and wireless direction-finding systems owing to winter operations and night flying on long distance lines; and to the development of overseas air transport and of scientific investigation

NOURISHING A SCORPION

FRENCH COMMENT ON TROTSKY

Paris, Apr. 16.

The Rightist newspapers are incensed by the discovery that M. Trotsky has been living in France and inveigh against the Government for allowing "a scorpion to be nourished" in the French bosom.

Echo de Paris demands an immediate judicial enquiry as to why a dangerous revolutionary has been given unheard of privileges to enable him to found a Fourth International.

Le Martin roundly attacks M. Chautemps, who was Minister for the Interior when permission to reside in France was given Trotsky.

The Leftist press, however, regrets that there has been much ado about nothing: Humanita denouncing the absurd plot to give publicly "to this renegade."

Now that the secret is out, it is expected that the Government will request Trotsky to seek another refuge.—Reuter.

In the sphere of air transport generally.

Estimates for air protection amount to 60 million Reichsmarks.

AIR RAID PROTECTION.

In last year's budget only 13 million Reichsmarks were provided for this purpose since the organisation of air protection was, at that time, only in its first stages. The newly-developed organisation is devoted to the protection of the civil population against air attack. Its activity consists in the erection of gasproof cellars, the training of squads for the rendering harmless of poisonous gases, the development of a fire extinguishing system, the training of special squads for warnings, technical repairs and the rendering harmless of poisonous gases and other similar measures.—British Wireless.

RUBBER CONTROL

There is at the moment a good deal of speculation in many quarters as to the likelihood of rubber restriction plans being put into operation in the near future. Holland and Britain are now in communication on the subject, and it remains to be seen what the outcome of the exchange of views will be. Whatever the actual facts of the situation may be, there can be little doubt that many of the reports which have appeared recently on this subject have had their origin in attempts to influence the share market. Industrially, Hongkong is not interested in the issue, but from the shareholders' viewpoint the developments are being closely watched here. The plea for restriction—hitherto—has been based largely on the alleged need of rescuing the industry from complete ruin, but facts and figures recently quoted in Singapore would seem to show that however bad things may have been, the present state of the industry is anything but discouraging. During last year, the consumption of crude rubber was about 7,000 tons in excess of the previous record total, and nearly 130,000 tons more than the total for 1932. Consumption in the United States was the third highest on record, while in the United Kingdom the year 1933 established a record. Moreover, in spite of the very heavy production, stocks at the close of the year were lower than during the preceding years, and everything points to a greater consumption this year than in 1933. Many of the Straits companies are paying dividends on last year's profits, and, according to the Straits Times, references are heard to interim dividends likely to be paid in the present year. As to how far the increased consumption is to be explained by expectation of an early restriction scheme causing purchases whilst prices are low, it would be difficult to say. There seems, however, a growing belief that what is really happening is that rubber is beginning to share in the general industrial recovery, and it is felt that restriction might stifle the new demand and lead to most undesirable results. Save as a last resort, restrictions are undoubtedly bad, for quotas inevitably mean complications and anomalies and the creation of expensive machinery for their working. As things are, it would probably be the sanest plan, as a prominent planter has suggested, for the industry and the Governments concerned to prepare a scheme of control and have it ready to carry into effect should it become clear that the only alternative is disaster.

NOTES OF THE DAY

ARMAMENTS AND FEAR

Heavy armaments are supposed to play a vital part in the breeding of the fear and suspicion that lead to war. The accepted pacifist view is that nations distrust one another when they go about armed to the teeth, and that to demonstrate preparedness is a certain way to set a neighbour thinking of a fight. Sometimes, though, it seems as if things do not follow that formula. A week or two ago, a huge British fleet was holding manoeuvres in the Leeward Islands, in the West Indies. It was the mightiest fleet England ever sent across the Atlantic. Not since the day of Rodney had so great a proportion of the empire's naval strength visited the edge of the Caribbean.

COMPARISON

And yet this demonstration aroused not a shadow of fear or suspicion in the United States. No one has risen to suggest that these manoeuvres mean that England is looking ahead to war with the United States. Indeed, it is likely that not one American in 50 even knew that the British fleet was on that side of the Atlantic. Of those who did know, hardly anyone thought twice about it. Compare that state of affairs with what happened a year or so ago, when the United States fleet held its manoeuvres off Hawaii. The whole Japanese nation became alarmed. The exercises were looked upon as a direct menace to Japan. It was asserted widely that preparation for war with Japan was the only possible motive for such action.

MATTER OF CONFIDENCE

The two cases are almost perfectly parallel, on the surface. But one passed unnoticed; the other led to an amazing amount of war talk. Why? Perhaps the answer lies in the fact that, in the first case, the cause of fear and suspicion, after all, if the national interests of two countries are in conflict, or seem to be, then military demonstration will provoke uneasiness and cause irritation; if fear and suspicion exist to begin with, in other words, fleet manoeuvres will bring them out into the open. But if they don't—if two nations know perfectly well that they are going to live peacefully, side by side, as the United States and England know it—then the admirals can parade their dreadnoughts when and where they please, and no one will think twice about it.

THE ASSYRIANS

Give history plenty of time, and it can create shifts in its never-ending pageant that will leave the observer amazed. It may take thousands of years, but in the end—from the standpoint of ironic contrast—the results are worth it. There are, for instance, those Assyrian refugees who are about to start on a long migration from the land of their ancestors to a colony along the upper reaches of the Amazon, in Brazil. These people, a mere handful, have been living in what was the country of Iraq. They are among the most luckless of modern peoples. Last summer many were massacred by neighbouring tribesmen, and only action by the League of Nations is saving them from complete ruin.

BUILDERS OF NINEVEH

Under League auspices, a spot has been found for them in Brazil, and they are to be moved there en masse as soon as arrangements can be finished. This surely is one of the strangest twists that the pageant of history ever has taken. For these people are the surviving descendants of the Assyrians of old—the Assyrians who made their name mighty in the east, who built great Nineveh, swept down like destroying angels on such folk as the Israelites, and stood for the power and glory of temporal greatness in all its splendour.

HARASSED FRAGMENT

That was unimaginably long ago. The great city of Nineveh is a heap of sand and clay; the canals with which the Assyrians turned the bare plains of Asia Minor into garden spots dried up and disappeared centuries ago; the very name of what once was the most powerful nation in the world has become covered with dust, so that it sounds unreal and very far-off when we read about it in our Bibles or our history books. And here, astonishingly, is a fragment of that far-away time surviving in the twentieth century—a pitiable, harassed fragment, saved from complete extinction only by the League of Nations, and exiled to a far-off jungle to start life anew! Of all the strange tales of history, this one is surely among the strangest.

THE SCOURGE OF WALL STREET

By RICHARD L. STROUT

Staff Correspondent, Washington Bureau of The Christian Science Monitor

NO country was lifted higher than the United States by the financial bubble of 1929. No country fell faster or harder in the collapse that followed. One of those periodic senatorial investigations which are so essentially a part of the American scene. The investigation made the reputation of Ferdinand Pecora. Senatorial investigations drag on for months, years; sometimes they seem interminable, hit-or-miss, random affairs; yet actually they dredge up the mountains of facts which form the raw material for future legislation and set the mould of public opinion for a generation to come.

Twenty years ago it was the celebrated "money" inquiry. That brought John Pierpont Morgan before it. Samuel Untermyer made his reputation there. To-day it is the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Once more a John Pierpont Morgan comes before it; and this time it is a swarthy-faced native of Sicily, son of a shoemaker, "scourge of Wall Street," who faces him.

For the past year or longer, Ferdinand Pecora has caused to parade before him, as counsel of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, the proudest captains of American banking. Many have come reluctantly but they have come, partly because they could not do otherwise in the face of a subpoena, and partly because their coming was in keeping with the way the Senate does things, and the tradition of American democracy. Some of these men have emerged with reputations enhanced, or at least, undimmed; others—and there have been a good many of them—have been less fortunate. A few have topped from lofty places; a few have slunk away, broken men.

Mr. Pecora, through all this time, has had one motto. "Pick the biggest"—whether it is the biggest bank, like the Chase National; the biggest banking affiliate, like the National City Company; or the biggest banker, like Mr. Morgan. His object has been to throw the white light of publicity, which has a dazzling quality in Washington unknown to other lands, upon the operations of the American financial and speculative system; in short, to show the Tom, Dick, and Harry of the United States just what happens to their dollar when it goes into Wall Street.

An expose of this sort is like a marine expedition: it brings up strange phenomena from the dark green depths into which the dredge is plunged. Some of the material has made the nation gasp; some of it has made it smile; a good deal of it has made it grit its teeth with a grim look that betokens a resolve to extirpate malpractices and insubordinate reform.

Through it all, Mr. Pecora has sat at the head of his long table, unperturbed. Occasionally, he has mopped his forehead with a handkerchief, in the heat of Washington's summer. Occasionally, his voice has risen to angry emphasis over the recalcitrance of some witness. But at the end of the day he has been calm and smiling. He has hobnobbed with newspaper men, kept on genial terms with Senators, and preserved a personal detachment as to witnesses, no matter how hard he has pressed them individually on the witness stand in the course of succeeding battles of wit.

In certain respects, no odder personality than Mr. Pecora ever sat in the important chair of counsel, in the long history of major senatorial investigations. There is a naive quality about him. The naïveté is coupled with a contradictory astuteness and subtlety as a lawyer that fully accomplishes its inequitable purposes. But behind this is a personal curiosity that begins where the professional investigation leaves off. There is a freshness and sparkle about his interest that never wears out. If there is one word that describes Mr. Pecora, it is resiliency. He does not have any of the Anglo-Saxon severity. He has a curiosity about the personality of each new witness which is as objective as that of a child regarding a new bright-coloured ball. He wants to know, first, because he is hired to find out; and second, because he is intensely curious himself.

Mr. Pecora forgets any controversy that occurred in his examination the minute the witness is excused. He carries no animus from the Senate table. Furthermore, he carries, as he once told the writer, "no problem to bed with him." It is a singular gift, possessed by few persons. This same quality of detachment, combined with an easy transition of moods and a personal interest in the affairs under consideration, produces a frequent alteration of demeanour during the examination of individual witnesses. There is good-natured banter. Most of the witnesses do not dislike Mr. Pecora. They may fret and fume over the facts which they are forced to spread on the record, but they never comes to a personal issue with the inquisitor; Mr. Pecora is far too skilled a lawyer for that. He does not bully witnesses; he resists even the terrific senatorial temptation to "browbeat" bank presidents. For this reason, he is all the more able to extract and put on the record the material which he is really interested in—facts, always facts, let them damage whom they may.

Mr. Pecora's personal appearance is somewhat singular, and bespeaks his ancestry. His lips are full. He can set his jaw so that the underlip protrudes truculently. But generally his face is mobile, smiling. His complexion is dark to swarthy. His hair is the most unusual feature of his makeup: it is as curly and wiry as the common material known as steel wool, found in the house-keeper's kitchen, and it is streaked with gray. His eyes are dark and brilliant. This is the countenance that the witness meets as he takes his chair, as the first glance is exchanged in sizing each other up. There is a certain primitive faun-like quality in this native of the Italian soil, brought face to face in the last year with many scions of the Anglo-Saxon socially elite.

Any lawyer who takes over the job of counsel for an important senatorial investigation requires attributes that are not always easy to find. He must be a good examiner—that goes without saying. (Continued on Page 11.)

The Very Idea!

HOW WE BEGAN

By George

The scene is in any room within reason; the time anytime within reason; the characters anyone you please.

Editor: (sitting back in chair holding paper with bored expression) Come in, young man, come in. You want to be a journalist, eh? And you want a job, eh?

Ourself: (wearing chair-boy's celluloid collar and look of man-about-town) Yessir.

Editor: Well the first thing you must learn is not to be cynical. Take that Seraphic collar off your neck!

Ourself: Yessir.

Take collar off.

Editor: It takes more than cynicism to make a journalist nowadays. It takes enthusiasm and optimism. Enthusiasm to get a job and optimism to persuade oneself he's going to hold it.

Ourself: Yessir.

The Editor: The Journalist of yesterday was a gentleman by the standards of to-day and the Journalist of to-day only attains that status in his obituary notice.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: A journalist is always infallible to the public but he never does anything right to the boss.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: This is the only profession where "no news is not good news." Remember Northcliffe, "Stories in bones and news in the running crook."

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: If a dog bites a man that's just natural but if a man bites a dog—?

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: No. It means he's hungry or is trying his new set out. As a journalist—you must change your perspective.

Journalists get a bad name for borrowing in their attempts to get the human touch. They get a bad name for drinking in essaying the new angle. If they do neither they get called snobs and even Editors can't be snobs. Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: You are young yet and may give way to impulsive emotions but, remember, never be a gentleman at our expense.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: You will find that we shall give you plenty of work to do but your sleeping hours will be your own and God help you if you spend them in the office!

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: Your conversation shows me that if you don't report you will at least never be reported, so I engage you for the job.

Ourself: Yessir.

Editor: Your first job will be to type out all we have said, take out the "Yessirs" and memorise it. Repeat it every day. Learn it well because you will only have time to say it in your sleep. After that bring me a copy of Punch and a cup of tea and let me know when our paper comes out.

Ourself: Yessir.

Exit with collar and job.

Twenty Years After

or The Editor's Croon Song.
It was Monday in the morning, and the time was nine o'clock, we had that after party yavvying, as we heard the ten boy knock. And we stretched a leg, rolled back to bed and slept on and slept on like a rock.

The telephone bell tinkled, a letter came from Home; the cold shower gently sprinkled, our shaving brush made foam. By eleven o'clock we were at it as a ton, and were wielding the old brush and comb.

It was Monday in the twilight, as we strolled in the old office door; we made sure that all was all right but we hadn't the time to do more; so we turned out the light, bade the watchman goodnight and went out through the old office door.

"Arthur is trying to make good use of his Saturday afternoons."

SILVER
DELUGEAMERICANS BEGIN TO UNLOADNOT EXPECTED TO CONTINUE

London, Apr. 16.
Late this afternoon the London silver market experienced a sudden wave of selling on American account.

The deluge of orders appears to have been caused by a statement attributed to Mr. Henry Rainey, Speaker of the House of Representatives, that President Roosevelt questions the advisability of proceeding with silver legislation now.

Although prices shed a farthing after the official close and although a small amount of business was done at even three-eighths under the official figure, the market was not unduly perturbed at what is considered to be a shake-out of the weaker bulls.

It is pointed out that the silver bloc in Congress have not diminished their determination to pass the silver bill.—Reuter.

STATEMENT DENIED

Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz have received a cable revealing a similar upset on the New York market, a sharp break occurring upon the uncovering of stop loss orders. The statement of Mr. Rainey was later denied. It is believed that the decline was overdone with partial recovery likely to-day.

THE RAINEY STATEMENT

Washington, April 16.
The statement attributed to Mr. Rainey was to the effect that "silver legislation will not be included in the Administration's programme during this session of Congress as President Roosevelt doubts the advisability of going ahead with the legislation now, preferring to continue present purchasing powers under the London Conference Silver Agreement."

Mr. Rainey said, according to the report, that he understood the Treasury was buying all newly-mined silver in the United States and that Canada, Mexico, Peru and Spain were doing the same regarding their sources of supply.—Reuter.

BRITISH LEGION

HONGKONG BRANCH MEETING

A general meeting of the British Legion, Hongkong branch, was held in Messrs. Jardine Matheson's Board Room yesterday. Mr. P. C. Hall presided, and there were also present: Mr. G. R. Sayer, Rev. G. T. Waldegrave, Mr. F. W. James, Mr. H. R. Forsyth, Major C. M. Mannors, Mr. C. E. Terry, Mr. G. B. S. Thomson, Mr. H. S. Hills, Mr. H. M. Cockle (Secretary).

The Chairman, in presenting the report and accounts for the two years ended 31st December, 1933, stressed the desirability of immediately forming a Committee to deal adequately with the business of the Legion. The Ex-Active Servicemen's Association had been merged with the British Legion, and the item of $3,455.32 shown on the income and Expenditure Account was the balance transferred from that Association. The funds had also been maintained by the interest received from the late Sir Paul Chater's fund, the present working income of the Society being derived entirely from that source. The Poppy Day appeal, organised by the parent body in London, was most successfully carried out by the Hongkong and China branch resulting in $14,207.02 being remitted to Earl Haig's Fund. Thanks are due to the many ladies and gentlemen who gave such generous help in this connection. During the period under review the amount of $7,612.11 was expended on relief work. Additional to this $2,000 was donated to the Poppy Day Funds 1932-33.

The Chairman then proposed the adoption of the statement of accounts which was seconded by Rev. G. T. Waldegrave and carried unanimously.

The following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year:—President, Mr. P. C. Hall; Vice President, Col. G. K. Hall Brutton; Committee, Mr. G. R. Sayer, Mr. E. J. R. Mitchell, Mr. F. W. James, Mr. H. R. Forsyth, Mr. H. S. Hills, Mr. A. C. Wilcox, Mr. G. N. Thoson and Major C. M. Mannors; Secretaries & Treasurers, Thomson & Co., at a remuneration of $300 per annum.

The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

BANISHEE CASE
REOPENEDWOMAN'S SENTENCE
INCREASED

A sentence of one month's hard labour passed on a woman, who, on Saturday for returning from banishment was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning.

The woman was banished last month for ten years for begging in the Colony.

Giving his decision, the Magistrate said:—I have decided to reopen the case. I have reconsidered the case and in view of the fact that whatever her previous offences before banishment, returning from banishment is an indictable offence and in view also of the fact that it is a serious offence against the Government and that she returned about three weeks after she had been so banished, thus showing her absolute disregard for banishment, I have decided to increase her sentence, to six months.

We are informed by Mr. W. Anderson, the local secretary, that Dr. Alfred Mielowski, of the Trinity College of Music, will conduct the local examination this year. Dr. Mielowski is due to return to Hongkong on May 18. It will be remembered that this accomplished musician conducted the Trinity College examinations in 1931 and 1932, when he made a great many friends in the Colony.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

Through the courtesy of the Sports Club Committee, the second open contract bridge tournament will take place at the Club premises, commencing May 7. The Committee consists of Mr. Justice Lindell (President), Mr. F. W. Frank, Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. H. Lo, and Mr. E. Pollitt (Secretary).

Mrs. In Kam-wai is to distribute the awards, and Mr. Chen Ju-ling, of the Hongkong branch of the Lingnam School, will speak.

Yuen Ching, unemployed, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment by Mr. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy this morning, for the theft of a quantity of brass and electric wiring from Tai Kok Dockyard. Mr. Bolton, head watchman, said there had been quite a number of such larcenies, but offenders were charged according to the gravity of the case.

All volunteer workers who have so kindly taken duty at the Street Sweepers Shelter at West Point are specially invited to attend an "At Home" to be given at the Cathedral Hall on Wednesday, 26th inst. from 5 to 7 p.m. when members of the Executive Committee would like to receive any constructive criticisms or suggestions which will help in improving the work next winter. In order to know how many teas to provide, will those who are able to come to tea, which will be served from 5 to 6 p.m., kindly advise the Hon. Secretary, Miss L. Mow Fung, c/o Gilman & Co. Ltd., as soon as possible? Those who are unable to attend the "At Home" but have any suggestions to make are asked to write to Miss Mow Fung.

LORD TYRRELL'S
RESIGNATIONWARM TRIBUTE BY FOREIGN SECRETARY

London, Apr. 16.
Lord Tyrrell's long and distinguished career as British Ambassador in Paris ends to-day. He will return to London to-morrow. Sir John Simon, in a telegram, to Lord Tyrrell says:—"His Majesty's Government wish me to express to you their sincere thanks for your manifold and invaluable services. I should like to add an expression of my own gratitude for all the advice and assistance which you have afforded to me while I have been Secretary of State. Your constant contribution in maintaining and furthering Anglo-French relations is deeply appreciated by your fellow-countrymen."

Lord Tyrrell replied:—"I deeply appreciate the generous message from His Majesty's Government and beg you to accept for yourself and convey to your colleagues my gratitude for their appreciation of my services. I very much regret my decision imposed upon me by my health to sever my official relations with you, which have always aimed at the continuance and promotion of Anglo-French relations, so vital to the maintenance of the peace of the world."—British Wireless.

STIFF SENTENCE ON WOMANAIDING CHILDREN TO SELL PAPERS

"You are not charged with hawking; you are charged with allowing children to hawk, which is a more serious offence," marked Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when imposing a fine of $50, or in default, one month, on Ho Sam, a widow, charged with having aided and abetted child hawk newspapers in Douglas Street yesterday.

Inspector Brennan said that yesterday morning about 11.30 o'clock he saw the defendant surrounded by a number of children in Douglas Street. She was distributing newspaper to them. He made a rush and all scattered. Later, defendant's address was traced by a reliable selling newspapers at the same spot. Defendant immediately arrived on the scene when her daughter was arrested. She was brought to the Station. He recognised her as a newspaper hawk.

Mr. Hamilton informed defendant that her daughter would be looked after at the Po Leung Kuk in case she could not pay her fine and went to prison.

IRISH AUTOCRAT

DE VALERA'S MOVE TO ABOLISH SENATE

Dublin, Apr. 16.
The Bill designed to abolish the Senate, the text of which has just been published, wipes out 16 Articles of the Constitution and deletes all reference to the Senate and two Houses of the Legislature.

If the Bill is passed, in future all measures passed by the Dail will automatically become law; hence it is assumed that Mr. De Valera does not intend to substitute another body for the Senate.—Reuter.

M.C.L. ANNUAL
MEETINGSUCCESSFUL YEAR
REPORTED

$9,583 RAISED

"That we have raised such a fund in a year, when the financial crisis has been felt so keenly, should be an encouragement for us to go on with even greater enthusiasm," stated Mrs. E. D. C. Wolfe, M.B.E., when presiding at the annual meeting of the combined Hongkong Women's Guild and Ministering Children's League at the Helena May Institute to-day.

Mrs. Wolfe said:—"Copies of the annual report have been sent to each member and I propose that it be taken as read, therefore I beg to move as an order of the annual report and a vote of thanks."

Before putting the report and a balance sheet to the vote, there are a few remarks I wish to make on the work of the Guild and League. We regret the absence to-day of our Patrons, Lady Peel, who always takes such a keen interest in our work and is ever ready to support us, for which we are most grateful. We welcome our Honorary Vice-Presidents, Lady Dreyer and Mrs. Borrett, and I am very glad indeed to tell you that Lady Southern and Mrs. MacGregor have also consented to become Honorary Vice-Presidents. We have only this year instituted this addition to our General Committee and we feel it to be a most valuable addition as we now have a claim on friends who will loyally stand by us and we thank them heartily for the interest and support they give us.

STRIKING FIGURES

We are an Association whose aim is to organise entertainments to raise funds for charity. We have seven branches, five school branches and two children's clubs, our membership standing at 1,554, of which 1,000 are children. I feel that the great value of having such an association is that it draws together members from all sections of the community, for although the branches do work separately they also combine as, for instance, when the annual beach gala is held, and just recently all the branches joined in getting up a bridge and mangle drive which went off most successfully.

We are very proud of having added the Diocesan Girls' School this year to the number of our school branches. The Children's Club at the Peak has been carried on most successfully for a number of years, so has the one formed by the children of the Police Department, and I hope to see two more clubs started this summer. Victoria had one in 1932 which lapsed at the end of a very good season. I hope it will be restarted soon, and I should like to see a club formed in Kowloon.

The children meet one day a week during the summer holidays, and the articles which are disposed of before the schools are very attractive things one finds on the stalls—thanks to the guidance of many enthusiastic adult helpers.

OVER $9,000 RAISED

I think we may be allowed to congratulate ourselves on the sum of money raised during 1933-1934 namely $9,583.

Our balance sheet shows the additional sum of $1,500 which we have held since 1932 for the Cheer O Club and which we have now paid into their fund. We also have a very small balance in hand (under $100) to start the new working year.

That we have raised such a fund in a year when the financial crisis has been felt so keenly should be an encouragement for us to go on with even greater enthusiasm. Most of this money has been raised in small sums which would not have found their way into the funds of our charitable institutions by any other means.

We have two annual commitments, $50 to the M.C.L. Homes at Otter Shaw in England for the endowment of two cots in the name of Hongkong, and $1,000 for one cot in the children's ward in the Netherlands Hospital here. You will see that the following societies have been helped this year:—Netherlands Hospital M.C.L. Cot, $1,000; Hongkong Benevolent Society, $1,000; Hongkong Society for Protection of Children, $1,000; C. M. S. Victoria Home and Orphanage, $1,000; Garrison Ladies' Society, $1,000; Sailors' and Soldiers' Home ($140) and mazzette papers, Naval Cadets, $75; C. M. S. Village School Fund, $700; C. M. S. Vernacular School Fund, $700; Protestant Alms Houses Kowloon City, $500; Blind Home Pokfulam, $500; Salvation Army Home Kowloon City, $200; Street Boys' Club, $200; Chinese Y. W. C. A. Baby Clinic, $200; total, $9,583. Formerly we sent more money to charities in Great Britain but the past few years it has seemed wise to give money to local charities and thus avoid loss on exchange, we also feel that local institutions should have the first claim on our funds.

CUMBERSOME TITLE

Our title, "H.K.W.G. and M.C.L.," always seemed to me to be rather clumsy. A few months ago we had a letter from Mrs. Haverfield, the Secretary of the M.C.L. in England, asking us for suggestions for a new title and telling us that other branches of the League abroad had complained that the title was a stumbling block. We certainly found it to be so here, and in 1920 added the name of H.K.W.G. and the M.C.L. We are waiting to hear what is decided at Home but I feel our title might well be altered to ministering League which would embrace both children and

AMATEUR RACKETS

I. Akers-Douglas Again
Champion

London, March 20. Ian Akers-Douglas won the Amateur Rackets Singles title for the third time, at Queen's Club yesterday, by defeating A. M. Hedley by 3 games to nil (15-9, 15-3, 17-10). Throughout this competition Hedley has shown himself not only a player of some fine strokes, but he goes out for his shots in exhilarating fashion. That is, indeed, somewhat of a handicap to him at present, and experience will, no doubt, teach him later to temper his brilliance with discretion.

He had a great opportunity of taking a game off the champion in the third, for he led 14-8. He could not, however, make that last point to win, even when he had a second chance after leading 2-1 in the set of 3. Hedley hit wildly when a little coolness would have given him the game. He was put out twice without scoring, and Akers-Douglas drew level at 2—all, and then won the match with a well-played angle-shot.

Akers-Douglas had started rather slowly, and Hedley led 5-1 in the first game and again 8-5. Akers-Douglas had then fairly warmed up, and a run of 8 put him on top. From 13-0 the holder went to 6-0, in the second game, another run of 8, before being put out with a good-length return by Hedley, and getting in again at 3-8, he won the game with a run of 7.

Hedley served particularly well at the beginning of the third game, and went to 6-0, four of them by service, in his first hand, and smaller runs gave him a lead of 13-4, but Akers-Douglas was a tireless and clever opponent, and Hedley could never clinch his tentative advantage.

NEW CHAMPIONS

In the return match in the Triangular Hockey Tournament, the Navy beat the Army by six goals to four on the Navy ground, King's Park, yesterday afternoon. The Navy have, therefore, won the Tournament with the Army runners-up. The Hongkong Hockey Club are the wooden spoonists.

The Navy started in brilliant fashion, and their forward line combining well, and they scored their first goal through Lieut. Bartlett, followed by Lieut. Donald a few minutes later.

The Army then scored through Lieut. Garthwaite and the Navy went further ahead through Lieut. Curry and Lieut. Eaden.

Prior to the interval, the Army scored their second goal through Kerkar Singh.

In the second half, the Navy added two more goals, the maximum being Lieut. Bartlett, and Lieut. Curry. Their forward line lacked combination, however.

As the result of a splendid rally, in which Lieut. Hocquard on the right wing and Lal Singh on the left were prominent with some fine centres, the Army obtained their third point through Kerkar Singh, and Dalla Singh added a fourth shortly afterwards.

Towards the end, Senior just failed to score after a good effort. The Army were pressing at the close of play.

CHAMPIONSHIPSMASHES ARAGON
IN SEMI

Manila, April 13. Leonardo Gavia, Jr., smashed his way into the finals of the national open tennis championship by decisively defeating Guillermo Aragon in three straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 in one of the semi-final matches yesterday at the Laong Laan courts. He qualified to meet Paquito Aragon, one time local tennis king pin who crushed Felix Ampon's pennant aspirations in the other semi-final match, score 7-5, 6-2, 7-5.

Using his effective service to advantage yesterday, Gavia had the match well under control as G. Aragon failed to break through. In the first set, Gavia made quick work out of Aragon, allowing his opponent but one game. The Tondo lad proceeded to slaughter the older Aragon in the next sets with his lightning service and fierce overhead smashes, coping them in grand style.

G. Aragon's chops were no match against Gavia's forehand drives which worked in good order throughout the match. Aragon's best efforts earned him two games in each of the last two sets.

Paquito Aragon's impressive victory over Ampon yesterday brings him nearer to what is expected as a brilliant comeback after laying off for sometimes due to lung ailment. The way Paquito slashed his way to the finals over Ampon has stamped him as a dangerous contender for the premier honours this year.

Showing his old time form which brought him to the top of the pile in the past, Aragon copped his match but not without opposition from the veteran Ampon.

The first set was closely contested, with Ampon pressing Paquito hard. The set was nobody's game until Paquito finally pocketed the last two games to take the set. In the second set, Aragon bested Ampon rather easily coping it with the score of 6-2. The third set was a repetition of the first with Aragon holding the upper hand, although Ampon fought gallantly to stem the tide.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

How two of the principal players in Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck's 20th Century Picture "Advice to the Lovelorn," coming on Thursday to the Alhambra Theatre, happened to embrace acting careers is proof that there is no prescribed path for actors to fame. Leo Tracy, the star, declares he went into a one-horse vaudeville act following a try-out because he felt he would have been a failure in any business or profession and was wondering if there wasn't something in the world he could do well. Sally Blane was eating lunch in a restaurant and having no more idea of becoming a screen star than of flying to Mars—she was only fifteen. Wesley Ruggles, film director, walked up to her table, introduced himself and said she was just the type of girl he had been seeking for days to play his present role. He was then directing at University Adelyn Doyle, went into a movie theatre one night to see "A Bill of Divorcement" and was bowled over by her own resemblance to Katherine Hepburn. The next morning she went to the RKO studio, applied for the job of Hepburn's since then has helped Adelyn become an actress in her own right. Paul Harvey got started because he had an uncle who managed road shows and the Uncle thought Paul was big and strong enough to carry trunk and shift scenery. From this lowly status Paul worked up to prominence on the New York stage. Judith Wood, graduate of the Art Student's League, went to the New Playwrights Theatre in New York with the intention of designing sets and costumes. She was asked to play a bit in "The Holy Trinity" and from that day this she has acted for a living. She scored a big success in the Broadway stage production of "Dinner at Eight," just before 20th Century Pictures signed her for "Advice to the Lovelorn," which United Artists is releasing.

"The Bowery"
The Gay Nineties are coming back in "The Bowery." Hilarious, fun, robust romance and naughty night of Frank and Johnny times are promised with the arrival of Wallace Beery, George Raft, Jackie Cooper, Fay Wray, Pert Kelton and a host of other celebrities in "The Bowery" at the King's Theatre on Thursday. Of all the decades in American history, that from 1890 to 1900 seems to be the most popular in these times with photoplay audiences. So, in tune with that expressed preference, "The Bowery" brings back the music and dances of the '90s, buxom chorus girls, hustled young ladies, Mamie O'Grady with puffed sleeves, Bowery boys with puffed eyes, prize fights that were on the square, beer with a punch and love's young dream along the "livest mile on the face of the globe." New York's world-famous Bowery. "The Champ"—Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper who were loaned to 20th Century Pictures by M.G.M. George Raft was loaned by Paramount, while Fox contributed its ace director, Raoul Walsh. Feminine interest in "The Bowery" will be intense because of the emphasis placed on the part of the Bowery girls played in the life of the romantic old thoroughbred. Fay Wray and Pert Kelton head the large feminine cast.

"Roman Scandals"
Eddie Cantor sings three lively new songs in his inimitable fashion in "Roman Scandals," the comedian's fourth annual screen musical extravaganza for Samuel Goldwyn, showing simultaneously at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatre. The numbers are "Keep Young and Beautiful," "Build a Little Home," and "Tax On Love." The first two were written by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, while the last Warren collaborated with L. Wolfe Gilbert. "No More Love" the plaintive ballad composed by Ruth Etting of radio and Ziegfeld Follies fame in the spectacular Slave Market sequence of this United Artists release, was also written by the Dublin and Warren team. Gloria Stuart, David Mannix, Edward Arnold and Verne Treadwell feature with Ruth Etting in this adaptation of George S. Kaufman and Robert Sherwood's rollicking story, under the direction of Frank Tuttle. Busby Berkeley created and directed the dance and production numbers.

"Design For Living"
Ernst Lubitsch's brand new Paramount picture, "Design For Living," is now playing at the King's Theatre. It has for its leading players Fredric March, Gary Cooper, Miriam Hopkins and Edward Everett Horton and was brought to the screen by Ben Hecht from Noel Coward's sensational stage success of the same name. Motion pictures have rarely attempted pic-

HUANG FU AND NANCHANG

BRIEF STATEMENT TO JOURNALISTS

REFUTES MANY RUMOURS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, April 17.

General Huang Fu, Chairman of the Peking Political Council, made an important statement at a press conference last night regarding the North China situation.

He said that satisfactory results had been obtained at the Nanchang conference, which concentrated its attention on the North China situation and the "Red" suppression problem.

He said that the situation in North China did not warrant the excitement shown recently by the public.

He denied that the Nanchang Conference had discussed the problem of the restoration of postal and railway communication with Manchukuo and said that such reports were issued from irresponsible quarters.

He admitted that the Japanese authorities had made numerous requests in relation to the restoration of the status quo in the ex-war zone, but they had not made any exorbitant demands, which, as alleged in other than official circles, had led to the creation of a "serious situation" in North China. —Central News.

tures dealing with the subject of "Design For Living." Paramount, struck with the amusing entertainment possibilities of the stage play, bought it for a Lubitsch picture and placed a most important cast in the film. On a Paris-bound train, Miriam Hopkins, vivacious young artist, first meets the two men who are to change her life. They are George Curly, also an artist and Tom Chambers, playwright, played by Cooper and March respectively. Tom and George both fall madly in love with her. To further complicate matters, Miss Hopkins falls in love too. Only she is too fond of Tom to tell him she loves George, and she loves George too much to tell him about Tom. After lengthy discussions, the problem is solved. She is to live with them, but she will be a mother of the arts. Sex is out entirely. So with this goal for their happiness, the three of them settle down together in their triangular love-nest. But happiness isn't won so easily, and the manner in which they eventually do get together brings the picture to a most amusing ending.

Don't Wait Until You Are Crippled By Rheumatism!

Perhaps you are numbered amongst those who know the misery of rheumatism. It may be just a recurrent attack at intervals or you may never wholly be rid of it, which ever it is, unless it is eradicated it will lead to greater ills, for constant pain will eventually bring on anaemia, and this in turn produces neuralgia, dyspepsia, and other troubles resulting from an impoverished condition of the blood.

Countless sufferers from rheumatism have found relief by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When the nerves are weakened and the digestion impaired, acidity is set up in the stomach and this is the source of acid poisons which find their way into the blood and cause rheumatism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unique in their ability to create new, rich, red blood which is the first essential in the treatment of rheumatism, for there can be no hope of a permanent cure, if the blood is thin, weak and watery.

By their tonic action on the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been proved by medical test to increase the quality and quantity of the rheumatic sufferer's blood. A trial will convince you. Their general strengthening effect makes them equally good for nervous complaints, digestive troubles and for the special ailments of women. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

PRESSURE IN THE COMMONS

THE MANCHURIA
ROUTE

London, April 16.

Britain does not contemplate taking any step likely to compromise her political relations with China. This was made clear in the House of Commons to-day.

Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, replying to a series of Commons questions concerning the Siberian mail route, gave an assurance that no opportunities would be lost to promote the resumption of the mail service through Manchuria.

As the matter involves political issues, however, he was forced to decline, for the present, to accept the suggestion that representations be made to China that mails be transmitted via Manchuria and Dairen.

The nature of the British Reply to the recent Chinese Note in regard to the Treaty of Tientsin, 1868, and the Commercial Treaty, 1902, is now being considered in consultation with the departments of the government concerned, and pending the completion of such consultation, it would be impossible for him to make any statement regarding its terms.—Reuter.

BANKRUPTCY DENIAL

PARTNERSHIP ISSUE
RAISED

Respecting the bankruptcy of the Tai Hing Knitting Factory, a motion was made before the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, this morning that Chin Yue-sum, alleged to have been a partner, should be allowed to contest the allegation in court.

Mr. F. C. Jenkin, instructed by Mr. H. L. Dennys, made the application which was agreed to by Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. D. B. Evans, for the Trustee in Bankruptcy.

It was stated that a receiving order was made last year against the factory and in due course the Trustee registered that receiving order against property belonging to, or standing in the name of Chin Yue-sum. The Trustee had stated that his action was justified in that Chin was a partner of the factory. An affidavit had been filed denying partnership and both parties were agreed to ask his Lordship to order the issue to be tried in Court.

PROMOTION RACE

BRADFORD FORCED TO DROP OUT

SECOND DIVISION
FOOTBALL

London, Apr. 16.
Nottingham to-day defeated Bradford in a Second Division match, scoring the only goal. The result has an important bearing on promotion and relegation problems. Nottingham have little further reason to fear relegation. Bradford's interest in promotion has virtually ceased. In the Scottish League, Motherwell won comfortably at Tynecastle Park, Edinburgh, defeating Hearts of Midlothian by three goals to one.

The struggle for promotion in the Second Division presents an extremely interesting problem. Brentford (47 points), Bolton (47) and Preston (46) are left in the race, with the following fixtures:

Brentford	v. Hull City (a)
	v. Lincoln (h)
	v. Bury (a)
Bolton	v. Swanssea (a)
	v. Millwall (h)
